NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

SMALL POX is raging throughout Egypt. As the land of the Pharaohs supplies a large share of the rags consumed in the United States, the news is interesting.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is enjoying a yachting trip along the Massachusetts coast, and spent yesterday fishing in Vineyard Sound. He is accompanied by ex-Secretary Fairchild and Daniel Lamont.

THE Democratic wail from Boston that protection is killing the iron industries of Massachusetts is pretty effectually disposed of by the Tribune's article which we publish in another place. Protection kills nothing but Bourbonism, low wages and free trade lies

THE danger to the city of Plainfield, N. J., from the bursting of the big Feltville dam is passed, as the water has been let out. Union county has just been bonded for $50,000 for new county roads, and the loss of five bridges calls for a new loan of $25,000 additional.

THE Ithaca Journal reports that Jackson Graves, who was stung by a hundred swams of bees near that city on Wednesday, is doing well and will probably recover. The bees during their angry fight filled the highway in front of Mr. Graves's house for a long distance, and made it impassable for several hours.

EMPEROR WILLIAM is in England. It is believed that he will get new ideas upon free speech and a free press before he leaves the country. Then he will do well to come to the United States and learn how a great nation can live and command the respect of other great powers without a standing army or a costly naval establishment. Even monarchs can learn of republics.

A WILD steer ran through the streets of Williamsburg yesterday, and caught a twelve-year-old girl named Augusta Dorner upon its horns and tossed her high in the air. She came down in a soft heap of builders' sand twenty feet distant and received no bruises. A little distance farther the brute thrust its horns into the side of a valuable horse, causing its death in half an hour.

MISS ETTIE SCOTT and Mrs. Schuyler Cruger of Philadelphia have just heard that they are entitled to the fortune of John Scott, their uncle, who died several years ago. The property is worth $400,000 and has been held by the Bank of England since his death. The young women learned of their good fortune by answering an advertisement of inquiry for the relatives of the dead Scott.

IT is not believed that the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which was badly injured by the May floods, will be restored. An attempt to float $300,000 of repair bonds on the Baltimore market has failed because capitalists refuse to have anything to do with it until it is taken out of politics and the present management retired. The canal has been a most serviceable political machine for Gorman and the Maryland ring.

UNITED STATES CONSULAR AGENT HOYLE at Lacolle, Canada, owns a farm which crosses the boundary between New York and Quebec. A short time ago his farming implements were seized at Lacolle, on the charge that he had smuggled them into Canada. It transpires that he had moved them from the New York to the Canada side of the farm in cultivating his crops. A strict enforcement of the law would compel him to pay duty on these implements both ways as he carried them back and forth. His offense does not appear to assume the magnitude of a crime. Smugglers for profit seldom carry goods from the United States into Canada.

MARTIN STRAUB, a Philadelphia barber, went "into politics," and was greatly delighted at his success in getting a position as fireman in the postoffice at $2 a day. He went on duty Thursday night. The duty was to wheel nine tons of coal and keep the fires going. He came out in the morning with every finger blistered, his back aching ready to break, and his mouth, eyes, ears and nostrils filled with black dust. He did not go back. "Why," said he, "it is as hot as Tophet down there, and I—well, there is a base ball club named after me at Harrowgate." In less than an hour he had tendered his resignation and was back among his razors. He had made the discovery that "Uncle Sam" does not hire men to go on a picnic.

HARRY SEYBOLD, a bookkeeper in the Bank of Wheeling, W. Va., is a more prudent thief than the average. He took a package of $27,000 left at the bank by a business man in April, and declined to draw his salary, telling his employers that he had won a prize of $15,000 in the Louisiana lottery. When the package was missed he was suspected and watched, and on Thursday night was arrested. It was found that he had deposited $20,000 in different banks. This with his unpaid salary and some personal property makes the neat sum of $32,000, and the bank is fully indemnified. Proceedings have been begun, however, to prosecute the offender. He took the precaution to keep enough money on hand to replace his defalcations, but strangely neglected to secure his liberty by a compromise.

THE little summer resort known as Glen Haven, at the head of Skaneateles lake in Cayuga county, has had a sensational suicide. The victim was Miss Lillian Dumont, an accomplished society young lady of Brooklyn, who has spent her summers at the Glen for several years. Last Wednesday evening she attended the hop at the hotel where she boarded, but returned to her room in an adjacent cottage quite early. As she did not appear at the table in the morning, her mother carried a breakfast to her room, but did not find her within. She thereupon tried the door of a small closet, but found it fastened. It was forced open, and Miss Dumont was found strangled to death by a cord which she had twisted from the stays in her corset. Her body was removed to Brooklyn, where it was buried to-day. She was the daughter of Captain Henry D. Dumont, an army officer and broker in real estate. No cause is known for the act of self destruction.

TWO MURDERERS CONFESS.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

Charged That Department Commanders Have Exceeded Their Powers Recently.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The Inter-Ocean, one of the leading organs of the Grand Army of the Republic in the West, says: "It is plainly to be seen that the Department Commanders have exceeded their power and have assumed duties belonging to the Commander-in-Chief. From 1861 to 1865 the Grand Army of the Republic fought to sustain the principle of National supremacy as against State rights. Now more than 20 years after that memorable struggle in which this self-same Grand Army won united victories a few of its leaders become the advocates of State Rights and in a manner contrary to the rules and resolutions and against all precedents established by former Department Commanders, assume the control of the order. It is following too closely in the footsteps of the Confederacy to suit the entire membership of the Grand Army. It is said that charity covers a multitude of sins. Possibly it does, and it may be that the Posts who have so generously endorsed the eight Department Commanders did so to cover their recent sinning against the Grand Army. Their attempt to use the Grand Army as a boycotting machine is to be deplored. As a fraternal and charitable organization the Grand Army of the Republic leads all others. That its members have rights as regards railway fares equal to members of other and similar organizations no one will deny. The ways and means taken to secure those rights many of us believe were hasty, ill timed and uncalled for."

IN THE MRS. MAYBRICK TRIAL TO-DAY.

Physician Testified Patient's Symptoms Indicated Arsenical Poisoning.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 3.—At the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for the murder of her husband today Dr. Stevenson, one of the physicians who attended Mr. Maybrick, asserted that all of the patient's symptoms indicated that he was suffering from arsenical poisoning. A nurse testified that when Maybrick tried to persuade her husband to take medicine he objected, saying it was the wrong medicine. On cross-examination witness said no improper food or medicine was given to the patient while she was in the house. Mrs. Maybrick had appeared tender and considerate in her treatment of her husband. A waiter at Flatman's hotel identified the prisoner as the woman who had occupied a bed-room in the hotel with one Brierley. The prosecution then announced that its case was closed. Sir Charles Russell opened the case for the defence. He made a forcible speech in which he urged that the jury could not render a judgment against the accused based on a probability, even if supported by an apparent motive for the commission of a crime, if there was a shadow of doubt.

TWO KENTUCKY MURDERERS CONFESS

Were Each to Receive $500 for Killing John A. Rose.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Aug. 3.—On Monday last James Combs, Jesse Barnett and Charles Wall were arrested in Breathitt County on suspicion of having murdered John A. Rose 10 days ago in Powell County. At the examination trial Combs made a full confession and afterward Barnett did the same. Combs says he and Barnett were hired by Goodloe Combs, a Deputy Sheriff of Breatnitt County and a cousin of James Combe, to kill Rose, who promised to furnish the pistols and pay each of them $500. He says Goodlore Combs told him James Hall was to furnish the money. D. Hall, a brother of James Hall was killed by Rose a year ago. Combs says he and Barnett overtook Rose the day he was killed and had some words with him and then passed on, and hid and shot him when he came up. Hall is held as a witness.

NEW EIGHT-STORY HOTEL IN BUFFALO

One of the Finest in the Country and Strictly Fire-Proof.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

BUFFALO, Aug. 3.—The event of the day in Buffalo is the opening of the new eight-story fire-proof hotel, "The Iroquois," erected on the site of the "Richmond," which was destroyed by fire March 18, 1887, with a loss of 18 lives. The new structure is one of the finest hotels in the country and will accommodate 400 guests. It is the property of the Buffalo Library Association and the lesses are Woolley & Gerrans. The architect was Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, of New-York. The building is strictly fire-proof, constructed in the most substantial manner, and splendidly furnished. There are 2,450 electric lights throughout the house, the dynamos for which are in the basement.

EXPLOSION OF AN EXPRESS TRAIN.

Messenger Killed and the Car Completely Wrecked—Inquest Held.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Last night when the train for Quebec on the Grand Trunk Railway had passed St. Louis, after going through the Victoria bridge, an explosion took place in the express car by which the messenger, named Rogers, was killed, the car completely wrecked and the express matter destroyed. Wild rumors are afloat that it was an attempt to blow up the Victoria bridge and was delayed too long. An inquest was held this afternoon.

Ice Trust Broken Up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—The Ice Trust, which, since the beginning of the season, has kept prices up to 140 per cent. more than was charged last year regardless of protests and public indignation, has collapsed. The break resulted from an attempt to force prices still higher. One of the dealers refused to agree to the proposition and withdrew from the compact. He has a supply of ice sufficient for the whole City, he states, and has reduced prices 50 per cent.

BLOODY FLUX EPIDEMIC IN THE WEST.

One Hundred and Eighty Cases and Fifteen Deaths in One Place.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CARTHAGE, Ill., Aug. 3.—A terrible epidemic of bloody flux has appeared at Warsaw, this County. It came last Monday in light form, and resembled dysentery, but on Wednesday it assumed a more serious phase, and now 15 people have died. Four deaths occurred Thursday and four yesterday, the victims being mostly children. One hundred and eighty cases are reported. Many of them, it is feared, will result fatally. The people are terror-stricken. The disease has also appeared at Hamilton, and is said to exist in epidemic form at Canton and Kahoka, Mo.

EMPEROR WILLIAM IN ENGLAND.

Review of British Fleet Postponed on Account of the Heavy-Rain.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Emperor William of Germany was to have reviewed the British fleet in Spithead to-day, but the review has been postponed until Monday on account of a heavy storm. A steady rain fell all day and the haze was so thick that the fleet could not be seen from the shore. The wind was blowing half a gale. Great numbers of small craft were hovering about the fleet all the morning and the occupants of many of them were drenched. It is a holiday on the Stock Exchange to-day.

Agent Gardner Not Dishonest.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Aug.—The evidence taken in the investigation of the misappropriation of money by the Creek delegates was filed yesterday by Agent Gardner. The taking of testimony abruptly closed after the delegates had testified that they paid ex-Governor Crawford the $228,000 alleged to have been unaccounted for. Agent Gardner expresses the opinion that ex-Governor Crawford will be indicted for receiving money belonging to the Creeks without having the approval of the Department, at which time all the facts, many of which could not be forced to the surface in the investigation, will be developed.

Will Resume Work Monday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Judge Tuley was appointed Monday to arbitrate the differences between Purington, Kimbell & Company brick manufacturers, and their employes, who struck over a month ago for an eight-hour day without reduction of wages. The firm claimed their men were bound to work under a contract which was to remain in force until 1890, and which provided that wages should be graded according to the number of hours worked. Judge Tuley decided in the firm's favor, and it is understood the strikers in all the Blue Island and adjoining yards will resume work Monday.

President's Callers To-Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The President was in conference with Secretaries Windom and Tracy for two hours this morning in regard to certain New-York appointments which he desires to make, so it is said, before his departure for Bar Harbor Tuesday night. The rest of his time during the forenoon was devoted to Secretary Proctor, First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson and ex-Representative John S. Wise.

The Death Record.

Commodore William E. Fitzhugh died at Philadelphia this forenoon. He commanded the Iroquois, of the North-Atlantic Blockading Squadron, was present at the capture of Fort Morgan in 1864, and as Commander of the Ouchati received the surrender of the Confederate naval forces on Red River. At the time of his death he was in command of the naval station at New-London, Conn.

It was agreed to organize a Company with a capital stock of $1,000,000.

Result of yesterday's ball games: National League: At Philadelphia—New-York 7, Philadelphia 0. At Washington—Boston 10, Washington 6. At Chicago—Chicago 8, Cleveland 7, 15 innings. At Pittsburgh—first game—Indianapolis 9, Pittsburgh 5; second game—Indianapolis 10, Pittsburgh, 5. American Association—At Brooklyn—St. Louis 6, Brooklyn 2. At Columbus—Kansas City 11, Columbus 2. At Baltimore—Baltimore 5, Cincinnati 2. At Philadelphia—Athletic 8, Louisville 1.

The game which was to have been played at Philadelphia Thursday by the Athletics and St. Louis does not go record as a victory for the Athletics, as Umpire Goldsmith did not so decide.

Manager Phillips, of Pittsburg, will, his physicians say, hardly recover. His disease is paresis. He will be removed to day to an insane asylum. Worry over Pittsburgh's poor playing is believed to have unsettled his reason.

In running the bases the Brooklyns do not begin to take the chances the St. Louis do. Hence, fewer runs in proportion to men on bases.

The weather at Saratoga to-day was clear and sultry and the track heavy. In the first race, five furlongs, Milton won, Celia B. second, Major Tom third. Time 1:08. In the second race, one mile, Robin Hood won Minnie Palmer second, Culprit third. Time 1:51½. In the third race, one mile and a half, Montrose won, Floodtide second, Pee Weep third. Time 2:48. In the fourth race, mile and a half and a furlong, May O. won, Whitenose second, King Crab third. Time 1:57. In the fifth race, selling, mile and a furlong, Frather won, Queen Elizabeth second, Royal Garter third. Time 2:05¾.

Jay Eye See, the phenomenal little gelding, owned by J. I. Case, of Racine, has gone lame and will not be trotted in any races this season. It is feared that it will never again appear on the race track. The lameness is the result of an accident at Lexington, Ky., five years ago. Jay Eye See's lowest record is 2:10.

In the unfinished pacing race at Cleveland yesterday, Lillian won the race to-day. Best time, 2:16. Allerton, a three-year old stallion, trotted a mile in 2:19.

Johnston, the pacer, driven by Budd Doble at Cleveland yesterday, made a mile in the fast time of 2:06½.

By Tuesday morning the beautiful course on Lake Calumet at Pullman, Illinois, will be dotted with the tiny craft of the amateurs, who are to compete on Thursday and Friday for championship honors and the handsome emblem of the National Association. All the fastest scullers in the country are to meet in the Association's races, and the major portion of them will also participate in the programme of the Mississippi Valley Association, which will be rowed Thursday and Saturday. The races, it is expected, will be the finest ever witnessed there. The National Association events are classified into junior and senior single, pairs, doubles, fours, both junior and senior, and eight-oared, shell and barge races.

HEAVY SHOWERS IN NEW-YORK CITY.

Trains Delayed by Water and Mud on the Harlem Railroad.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—This City was visited by several heavy showers to day. A storm this morning delayed trains on the Harlem railroad two hours. The new tracks between Tremont and Mott Haven were covered with water to the depth of a foot and in many places were covered with mud and sand. Gangs of Italians waded ahead of each train and removed the obstructions. The tracks were only flooded for the distance of a little over a mile, yet it took two hours to cover the distance. As the New-York & New-Haven Road uses the same tracks as far as Mount Vernon, its trains were also delayed.

Lightning struck the flag pole on the Police Station at the corner of Bedford and Lee avenues, Brooklyn, burned up the flag and injured the roof, besides badly frightening the officers. Lightning also caused an explosion and fire in the carpenterring establishment of George Craign & Company in South Brooklyn, but the damage was not serious. The water came down in blinding sheets, causing the gutters to become roaring torrents. During the storm nearly 5,000 people were sheltered at the New York end of the Brooklyn Bridge. At the same time the platform of the Third-Avenue Elevated Road terminus at the bridge was also packed with people. If the storm had continued an hour longer the crush would have been alarming.

THE STOCK AND MONEY MARKET.

Financial Doings on Wall-Street To-Day—The Closing Quotations.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 3.—The dullness in the stock market was as pronounced as usual this morning, except that the few active stocks did more business than of late. The opening was tame but weak and among the active stocks declines from last night's figures extended to ¼ per cent. Sugar Trust was again very active, and in the regular list St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Atchison and Cleveland, Columbus, Chicago & St. Louis took the lead, the others being dull and generally stagnant. There was a rally in the early dealings and prices were brought up to last night's figures and in some cases a shade beyond as in the cases of Reading and Atchison, each of which rose ¼. Sugar was the feature of the dealings and on large business rapidly rose from 113 to 114¼, but afterwards reacted a fraction. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady to firm.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—"Insane from smoking cigarettes" was the verdict reached by Justice Duffy this morning in the case of Max Casserly, a pale-faced young man, who was found wandering along Grand-street.

"He smokes three packages of cigarettes a day" explained Policeman Cohen, who made the arrest.

"Please, Judge," stammered the prisoner, "Give me a cigarette?"

"You ought to get rattaned instead," said Justice Duffy, as he committed him for medical examination.

Valuable Painting Seized.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Customs authorities have placed a seizure on the painting "Jerusalem on the Day of Crucifixion" on exhibition here and valued at $25,000. Its owners sought to have it enter free on the plea that it is a work of art. The authorities claim it was brought here for commercial purposes and should pay a duty of 20 per cent.

Coke Strike Not General.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 3.—The efforts to make the coke strike general have thus far met with small success. The list of idle works was increased yesterday by only three. NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

SMALL POX is raging throughout Egypt. As the land of the Pharaohs supplies a large share of the rags consumed in the United States, the news is interesting.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is enjoying a yachting trip along the Massachusetts coast, and spent yesterday fishing in Vineyard Sound. He is accompanied by ex-Secretary Fairchild and Daniel Lamont.

THE Democratic wail from Boston that protection is killing the iron industries of Massachusetts is pretty effectually disposed of by the Tribune's article which we publish in another place. Protection kills nothing but Bourbonism, low wages and free trade lies

THE danger to the city of Plainfield, N. J., from the bursting of the big Feltville dam is passed, as the water has been let out. Union county has just been bonded for $50,000 for new county roads, and the loss of five bridges calls for a new loan of $25,000 additional.

THE Ithaca Journal reports that Jackson Graves, who was stung by a hundred swams of bees near that city on Wednesday, is doing well and will probably recover. The bees during their angry fight filled the highway in front of Mr. Graves's house for a long distance, and made it impassable for several hours.

EMPEROR WILLIAM is in England. It is believed that he will get new ideas upon free speech and a free press before he leaves the country. Then he will do well to come to the United States and learn how a great nation can live and command the respect of other great powers without a standing army or a costly naval establishment. Even monarchs can learn of republics.

A WILD steer ran through the streets of Williamsburg yesterday, and caught a twelve-year-old girl named Augusta Dorner upon its horns and tossed her high in the air. She came down in a soft heap of builders' sand twenty feet distant and received no bruises. A little distance farther the brute thrust its horns into the side of a valuable horse, causing its death in half an hour.

MISS ETTIE SCOTT and Mrs. Schuyler Cruger of Philadelphia have just heard that they are entitled to the fortune of John Scott, their uncle, who died several years ago. The property is worth $400,000 and has been held by the Bank of England since his death. The young women learned of their good fortune by answering an advertisement of inquiry for the relatives of the dead Scott.

IT is not believed that the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which was badly injured by the May floods, will be restored. An attempt to float $300,000 of repair bonds on the Baltimore market has failed because capitalists refuse to have anything to do with it until it is taken out of politics and the present management retired. The canal has been a most serviceable political machine for Gorman and the Maryland ring.

UNITED STATES CONSULAR AGENT HOYLE at Lacolle, Canada, owns a farm which crosses the boundary between New York and Quebec. A short time ago his farming implements were seized at Lacolle, on the charge that he had smuggled them into Canada. It transpires that he had moved them from the New York to the Canada side of the farm in cultivating his crops. A strict enforcement of the law would compel him to pay duty on these implements both ways as he carried them back and forth. His offense does not appear to assume the magnitude of a crime. Smugglers for profit seldom carry goods from the United States into Canada.

MARTIN STRAUB, a Philadelphia barber, went "into politics," and was greatly delighted at his success in getting a position as fireman in the postoffice at $2 a day. He went on duty Thursday night. The duty was to wheel nine tons of coal and keep the fires going. He came out in the morning with every finger blistered, his back aching ready to break, and his mouth, eyes, ears and nostrils filled with black dust. He did not go back. "Why," said he, "it is as hot as Tophet down there, and I—well, there is a base ball club named after me at Harrowgate." In less than an hour he had tendered his resignation and was back among his razors. He had made the discovery that "Uncle Sam" does not hire men to go on a picnic.

HARRY SEYBOLD, a bookkeeper in the Bank of Wheeling, W. Va., is a more prudent thief than the average. He took a package of $27,000 left at the bank by a business man in April, and declined to draw his salary, telling his employers that he had won a prize of $15,000 in the Louisiana lottery. When the package was missed he was suspected and watched, and on Thursday night was arrested. It was found that he had deposited $20,000 in different banks. This with his unpaid salary and some personal property makes the neat sum of $32,000, and the bank is fully indemnified. Proceedings have been begun, however, to prosecute the offender. He took the precaution to keep enough money on hand to replace his defalcations, but strangely neglected to secure his liberty by a compromise.

THE little summer resort known as Glen Haven, at the head of Skaneateles lake in Cayuga county, has had a sensational suicide. The victim was Miss Lillian Dumont, an accomplished society young lady of Brooklyn, who has spent her summers at the Glen for several years. Last Wednesday evening she attended the hop at the hotel where she boarded, but returned to her room in an adjacent cottage quite early. As she did not appear at the table in the morning, her mother carried a breakfast to her room, but did not find her within. She thereupon tried the door of a small closet, but found it fastened. It was forced open, and Miss Dumont was found strangled to death by a cord which she had twisted from the stays in her corset. Her body was removed to Brooklyn, where it was buried to-day. She was the daughter of Captain Henry D. Dumont, an army officer and broker in real estate. No cause is known for the act of self destruction.

TWO MURDERERS CONFESS.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

Charged That Department Commanders Have Exceeded Their Powers Recently.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The Inter-Ocean, one of the leading organs of the Grand Army of the Republic in the West, says: "It is plainly to be seen that the Department Commanders have exceeded their power and have assumed duties belonging to the Commander-in-Chief. From 1861 to 1865 the Grand Army of the Republic fought to sustain the principle of National supremacy as against State rights. Now more than 20 years after that memorable struggle in which this self-same Grand Army won united victories a few of its leaders become the advocates of State Rights and in a manner contrary to the rules and resolutions and against all precedents established by former Department Commanders, assume the control of the order. It is following too closely in the footsteps of the Confederacy to suit the entire membership of the Grand Army. It is said that charity covers a multitude of sins. Possibly it does, and it may be that the Posts who have so generously endorsed the eight Department Commanders did so to cover their recent sinning against the Grand Army. Their attempt to use the Grand Army as a boycotting machine is to be deplored. As a fraternal and charitable organization the Grand Army of the Republic leads all others. That its members have rights as regards railway fares equal to members of other and similar organizations no one will deny. The ways and means taken to secure those rights many of us believe were hasty, ill timed and uncalled for."

IN THE MRS. MAYBRICK TRIAL TO-DAY.

Physician Testified Patient's Symptoms Indicated Arsenical Poisoning.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 3.—At the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for the murder of her husband today Dr. Stevenson, one of the physicians who attended Mr. Maybrick, asserted that all of the patient's symptoms indicated that he was suffering from arsenical poisoning. A nurse testified that when Maybrick tried to persuade her husband to take medicine he objected, saying it was the wrong medicine. On cross-examination witness said no improper food or medicine was given to the patient while she was in the house. Mrs. Maybrick had appeared tender and considerate in her treatment of her husband. A waiter at Flatman's hotel identified the prisoner as the woman who had occupied a bed-room in the hotel with one Brierley. The prosecution then announced that its case was closed. Sir Charles Russell opened the case for the defence. He made a forcible speech in which he urged that the jury could not render a judgment against the accused based on a probability, even if supported by an apparent motive for the commission of a crime, if there was a shadow of doubt.

Were Each to Receive $500 for Killing John A. Rose.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Aug. 3.—On Monday last James Combs, Jesse Barnett and Charles Wall were arrested in Breathitt County on suspicion of having murdered John A. Rose 10 days ago in Powell County. At the examination trial Combs made a full confession and afterward Barnett did the same. Combs says he and Barnett were hired by Goodloe Combs, a Deputy Sheriff of Breatnitt County and a cousin of James Combe, to kill Rose, who promised to furnish the pistols and pay each of them $500. He says Goodlore Combs told him James Hall was to furnish the money. D. Hall, a brother of James Hall was killed by Rose a year ago. Combs says he and Barnett overtook Rose the day he was killed and had some words with him and then passed on, and hid and shot him when he came up. Hall is held as a witness.

One of the Finest in the Country and Strictly Fire-Proof.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

BUFFALO, Aug. 3.—The event of the day in Buffalo is the opening of the new eight-story fire-proof hotel, "The Iroquois," erected on the site of the "Richmond," which was destroyed by fire March 18, 1887, with a loss of 18 lives. The new structure is one of the finest hotels in the country and will accommodate 400 guests. It is the property of the Buffalo Library Association and the lessees are Woolley & Gerrans. The architect was Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, of New-York. The building is strictly fire-proof, constructed in the most substantial manner, and splendidly furnished. There are 2,450 electric lights throughout the house, the dynamos for which are in the basement.

EXPLOSION OF AN EXPRESS TRAIN.

Messenger Killed and the Car Completely Wrecked—Inquest Held.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Last night when the train for Quebec on the Grand Trunk Railway had passed St. Louis, after going through the Victoria bridge, an explosion took place in the express car by which the messenger, named Rogers, was killed, the car completely wrecked and the express matter destroyed. Wild rumors are afloat that it was an attempt to blow up the Victoria bridge and was delayed too long. An inquest was held this afternoon.

Ice Trust Broken Up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—The Ice Trust, which, since the beginning of the season, has kept prices up to 140 per cent. more than was charged last year regardless of protests and public indignation, has collapsed. The break resulted from an attempt to force prices still higher. One of the dealers refused to agree to the proposition and withdrew from the compact. He has a supply of ice sufficient for the whole City, he states, and has reduced prices 50 per cent.

BLOODY FLUX EPIDEMIC IN THE WEST.

One Hundred and Eighty Cases and Fifteen Deaths in One Place.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CARTHAGE, Ill., Aug. 3.—A terrible epidemic of bloody flux has appeared at Warsaw, this County. It came last Monday in light form, and resembled dysentery, but on Wednesday it assumed a more serious phaze, and now 15 people have died. Four deaths occurred Thursday and four yesterday, the victims being mostly children. One hundred and eighty cases are reported. Many of them, it is feared, will result fatally. The people are terror-stricken. The disease has also appeared at Hamilton, and is said to exist in epidemic form at Canton and Kahoka, Mo.

EMPEROR WILLIAM IN ENGLAND.

Review of British Fleet Postponed on Account of the Heavy Rain.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Emperor William of Germany was to have reviewed the British fleet in Spithead to-day, but the review has been postponed until Monday on account of a heavy storm. A steady rain fell all day and the haze was so thick that the fleet could not be seen from the shore. The wind was blowing half a gale. Great numbers of small craft were hovering about the fleet all the morning and the occupants of many of them were drenched. It is a holiday on the Stock Exchange to-day.

Agent Gardner Not Dishonest.

By Telegraph to The Freemen.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Aug.—The evidence taken in the investigation of the misappropriation of money by the Creek delegates was filed yesterday by Agent Gardner. The taking of testimony abruptly closed after the delegates had testified that they paid ex-Governor Crawford the $228,000 alleged to have been unaccounted for. Agent Gardner expresses the opinion that ex-Governor Crawford will be indicted for receiving money belonging to the Creeks without having the approval of the Department, at which time all the facts, many of which could not be forced to the surface in the investigation, will be developed.

Will Resume Work Monday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Judge Tuley was appointed Monday to arbitrate the differences between Purington, Kimbell & Company brick manufacturers, and their employes, who struck over a month ago for an eight-hour day without reduction of wages. The firm claimed their men were bound to work under a contract which was to remain in force until 1890, and which provided that wages should be graded according to the number of hours worked. Judge Tuley decided in the firm's favor, and it is understood the strikers in all the Blue Island and adjoining yards will resume work Monday.

President's Callers To-Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The President was in conference with Secretaries Windom and Tracy for two hours this morning in regard to certain New-York appointments which he desires to make, so it is said, before his departure for Bar Harbor Tuesday night. The rest of his time during the forenoon was devoted to Secretary Proctor, First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson and ex-Representative John S. Wise.

The Death Record.

Commodore William E. Fitzhugh died at Philadelphia this forenoon. He commanded the Iroquois, of the North-Atlantic Blockading Squadron, was present at the capture of Fort Morgan in 1864, and as Commander of the Ouchati received the surrender of the Confederate naval forces on Red River. At the time of his death he was in command of the naval station at New-London, Conn.

To Make Brandy in California.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—At Viticultural Hall yesterday a number of prominent capitalists met a committee of the Grape-Growers Association and discussed a plan for relieving the wine industry of the State by distilling the surplus wines into a good, uniform quality of brandy. It was agreed to organize a Company with a capital stock of $1,000,000.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 3.—Warner Miller has been chosen by 19 leading paper firms to represent them on the World's Fair Committee.

SPORTS OF THE DAY PARAGRAPHED.

Items of Interest in Relation to Base Ball And Other Matters.

Result of yesterday's ball games: National League: At Philadelphia—New-York 7, Philadelphia 0. At Washington—Boston 10, Washington 6. At Chicago—Chicago 8, Cleveland 7, 15 innings. At Pittsburgh—first game—Indianapolis 9, Pittsburgh 5; second game—Indianapolis 10, Pittsburgh, 5. American Association—At Brooklyn—St. Louis 6, Brooklyn 2. At Columbus—Kansas City 11, Columbus 2. At Baltimore—Baltimore 5, Cincinnati 2. At Philadelphia—Athletic 8, Louisville 1.

The game which was to have been played at Philadelphia Thursday by the Athletics and St. Louis does not go record as a victory for the Athletics, as Umpire Goldsmith did not so decide.

Manager Phillips, of Pittsburg, will, his physicians say, hardly recover. His disease is paresis. He will be removed to day to an insane asylum. Worry over Pittsburgh's poor playing is believed to have unsettled his reason.

In running the bases the Brooklyns do not begin to take the chances the St. Louis do. Hence, fewer runs in proportion to men on bases.

The weather at Saratoga to-day was clear and sultry and the track heavy. In the first race, five furlongs, Milton won, Celia B. second, Major Tom third. Time 1:08. In the second race, one mile, Robin Hood won Minnie Palmer second, Culprit third. Time 1:51¼. In the third race, one mile and a half, Montrose won, Floodtide second, Pee Weep third. Time 2:48. In the fourth race, mile and a half and a furlong, May O. won, Whitenose second, King Crab third. Time 1:57. In the fifth race, selling, mile and a furlong, Prather won, Queen Elizabeth second, Royal Garter third. Time 2:05¾.

Jay Eye See, the phenomenal little gelding, owned by J. L. Case, of Racine, has gone lame and will not be trotted in any races this season. It is feared that it will never again appear on the race track. The lameness is the result of an accident at Lexington, Ky., five years ago. Jay Eye See's lowest record is 2:10.

In the unfinished pacing race at Cleveland yesterday, Lillian won the race to-day. Best time, 2:16. Allerton, a three-year old stallion, trotted a mile in 2:19.

Johnston, the pacer, driven by Budd Doble at Cleveland yesterday, made a mile in the fast time of 2:06¼.

By Tuesday morning the beautiful course on Lake Calumet at Pullman, Illinois, will be dotted with the tiny craft of the amateurs, who are to compete on Thursday and Friday for championship honors and the handsome emblem of the National Association. All the fastest scullers in the country are to meet in the Association's races, and the major portion of them will also participate in the programme of the Mississippi Valley Association, which will be rowed Thursday and Saturday. The races, it is expected, will be the finest ever witnessed there. The National Association events are classified into junior and senior single, pairs, doubles, fours, both junior and senior, and eight-oared, shell and barge races.

HEAVY SHOWERS IN NEW-YORK CITY.

Trains Delayed by Water and Mud on the Harlem Railroad.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—This City was visited by several heavy showers to-day. A storm this morning delayed trains on the Harlem railroad two hours. The new tracks between Tremont and Mott Haven were covered with water to the depth of a foot and in many places were covered with mud and sand. Gangs of Italians waded ahead of each train and removed the obstructions. The tracks were only flooded for the distance of a little over a mile, yet it took two hours to cover the distance. As the New-York & New-Haven Road uses the same tracks as far as Mount Vernon, its trains were also delayed.

Lightning struck the flag pole on the Police Station at the corner of Bedford and Lee avenues, Brooklyn, burned up the flag and injured the roof, besides badly frightening the officers. Lightning also caused an explosion and fire in the carpentering establishment of George Craign & Company in South Brooklyn, but the damage was not serious. The water came down in blinding sheets, causing the gutters to become roaring torrents. During the storm nearly 5,000 people were sheltered at the New York end of the Brooklyn Bridge. At the same time the platform of the Third-Avenue Elevated Road terminus at the bridge was also packed with people. If the storm had continued an hour longer the crush would have been alarming.

THE STOCK AND MONEY MARKET.

Financial Doings on Wall-Street To-Day—The Closing Quotations.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 3.—The dullness in the stock market was as pronounced as usual this morning, except that the few active stocks did more business than of late. The opening was tame but weak and among the active stocks declines from last night's figures extended to ¼ per cent. Sugar Trust was again very active, and in the regular list St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Atchison and Cleveland, Columbus, Chicago & St. Louis took the lead, the others being dull and generally stagnant. There was a rally in the early dealings and prices were brought up to last night's figures and in some cases a shade beyond as in the cases of Reading and Atchison, each of which rose ½. Sugar was the feature of the dealings and on large business rapidly rose from 113 to 114¼, but afterwards reacted a fraction. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady to firm. "You ought to get rattaned instead," said Justice Duffy, as he committed him for medical examination.

A CONDITION---NOT A THEORY.

Scene: Large excursion barge on the Hudson River! Many loving couples, some very spooney. Especially noticeable was one pair, Reginald Deepinlove and Arabella Sameway. After admiring the magnificent landscape and annihilating several pounds of bon-bons, Arabella lifted her loving eyes to her lover and uttered in plaintive tones: "Reginald do you really love me?" The young man almost fell fainting on the hard unpainted floor of the boat and exclaimed: "Arabella, my own, my dearest! I love you with all my heart; when can I call you mine?" Arabella, overcome by emotion and bon-bons, could only stammer: "When-- when— you take me to the Hudson River Furniture Company's store to purchase a set of handsome Antique Oak bed-room suits that I saw there a few days ago."

Scene: One day later—Two very happy people examining Antique Oak furniture at Hudson River Furniture Company's warerooms.

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

SMALL POX is raging throughout Egypt. As the land of the Pharaohs supplies a large share of the rags consumed in the United States, the news is interesting.

EX-PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is enjoying a yachting trip along the Massachusetts coast, and spent yesterday fishing in Vineyard Sound. He is accompanied by ex-Secretary Fairchild and Daniel Lamont.

THE Democratic wail from Boston that protection is killing the iron industries of Massachusetts is pretty effectually disposed of by the Tribune's article which we publish in another place. Protection kills nothing but Bourbonism, low wages and free trade lies

THE danger to the city of Plainfield, N. J., from the bursting of the big Feltville dam is passed, as the water has been let out. Union county has just been bonded for $50,000 for new county roads, and the loss of five bridges calls for a new loan of $25,000 additional.

THE Ithaca Journal reports that Jackson Graves, who was stung by a hundred swams of bees near that city on Wednesday, is doing well and will probably recover. The bees during their angry fight filled the highway in front of Mr. Graves's house for a long distance, and made it impassable for several hours.

EMPEROR WILLIAM is in England. It is believed that he will get new ideas upon free speech and a free press before he leaves the country. Then he will do well to come to the United States and learn how a great nation can live and command the respect of other great powers without a standing army or a costly naval establishment. Even monarchs can learn of republics.

A WILD steer ran through the streets of Williamsburg yesterday, and caught a twelve-year-old girl named Augusta Dorner upon its horns and tossed her high in the air. She came down in a soft heap of builders' sand twenty feet distant and received no bruises. A little distance farther the brute thrust its horns into the side of a valuable horse, causing its death in half an hour.

MISS ETTIE SCOTT and Mrs. Schuyler Cruger of Philadelphia have just heard that they are entitled to the fortune of John Scott, their uncle, who died several years ago. The property is worth $400,000 and has been held by the Bank of England since his death. The young women learned of their good fortune by answering an advertisement of inquiry for the relatives of the dead Scott.

IT is not believed that the Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which was badly injured by the May floods, will be restored. An attempt to float $300,000 of repair bonds on the Baltimore market has failed because capitalists refuse to have anything to do with it until it is taken out of politics and the present management retired. The canal has been a most serviceable political machine for Gorman and the Maryland ring.

UNITED STATES CONSULAR AGENT HOYLE at Lacolle, Canada, owns a farm which crosses the boundary between New York and Quebec. A short time ago his farming implements were seized at Lacolle, on the charge that he had smuggled them into Canada. It transpires that he had moved them from the New York to the Canada side of the farm in cultivating his crops. A strict enforcement of the law would compel him to pay duty on these implements both ways as he carried them back and forth. His offense does not appear to assume the magnitude of a crime. Smugglers for profit seldom carry goods from the United States into Canada.

MARTIN STRAUB, a Philadelphia barber, went "into politics," and was greatly delighted at his success in getting a position as fireman in the postoffice at $2 a day. He went on duty Thursday night. The duty was to wheel nine tons of coal and keep the fires going. He came out in the morning with every finger blistered, his back aching ready to break, and his mouth, eyes, ears and nostrils filled with black dust. He did not go back. "Why," said he, "it is as hot as Tophet down there, and I—well, there is a base ball club named after me at Harrowgate." In less than an hour he had tendered his resignation and was back among his razors. He had made the discovery that "Uncle Sam" does not hire men to go on a picnic.

HARRY SEYBOLD, a bookkeeper in the Bank of Wheeling, W. Va., is a more prudent thief than the average. He took a package of $27,000 left at the bank by a business man in April, and declined to draw his salary, telling his employers that he had won a prize of $15,000 in the Louisiana lottery. When the package was missed he was suspected and watched, and on Thursday night was arrested. It was found that he had deposited $20,000 in different banks. This with his unpaid salary and some personal property makes the neat sum of $32,000, and the bank is fully indemnified. Proceedings have been begun, however, to prosecute the offender. He took the precaution to keep enough money on hand to replace his defalcations, but strangely neglected to secure his liberty by a compromise.

THE little summer resort known as Glen Haven, at the head of Skaneateles lake in Cayuga county, has had a sensational suicide. The victim was Miss Lillian Dumont, an accomplished society young lady of Brooklyn, who has spent her summers at the Glen for several years. Last Wednesday evening she attended the hop at the hotel where she boarded, but returned to her room in an adjacent cottage quite early. As she did not appear at the table in the morning, her mother carried a breakfast to her room, but did not find her within. She thereupon tried the door of a small closet, but found it fastened. It was forced open, and Miss Dumont was found strangled to death by a cord which she had twisted from the stays in her corset. Her body was removed to Brooklyn, where it was buried to-day. She was the daughter of Captain Henry D. Dumont, an army officer and broker in real estate. No cause is known for the act of self destruction.

TWO MURDERERS CONFESS.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC.

Charged That Department Commanders Have Exceeded Their Powers Recently.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—The Inter-Ocean, one of the leading organs of the Grand Army of the Republic in the West, says: "It is plainly to be seen that the Department Commanders have exceeded their power and have assumed duties belonging to the Commander-in-Chief. From 1861 to 1865 the Grand Army of the Republic fought to sustain the principle of National supremacy as against State rights. Now more than 20 years after that memorable struggle in which this self-same Grand Army won united victories a few of its leaders become the advocates of State Rights and in a manner contrary to the rules and resolutions and against all precedents established by former Department Commanders, assume the control of the order. It is following too closely in the footsteps of the Confederacy to suit the entire membership of the Grand Army. It is said that charity covers a multitude of sins. Possibly it does, and it may be that the Posts who have so generously endorsed the eight Department Commanders did so to cover their recent sinning against the Grand Army. Their attempt to use the Grand Army as a boycotting machine is to be deplored. As a fraternal and charitable organization the Grand Army of the Republic leads all others. That its members have rights as regards railway fares equal to members of other and similar organizations no one will deny. The ways and means taken to secure those rights many of us believe were hasty, ill timed and uncalled for."

IN THE MRS. MAYBRICK TRIAL TO-DAY.

Physician Testified Patient's Symptoms Indicated Arsenical Poisoning.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 3.—At the trial of Mrs. Maybrick for the murder of her husband today Dr. Stevenson, one of the physicians who attended Mr. Maybrick, asserted that all of the patient's symptoms indicated that he was suffering from arsenical poisoning. A nurse testified that when Maybrick tried to persuade her husband to take medicine he objected, saying it was the wrong medicine. On cross-examination witness said no improper food or medicine was given to the patient while she was in the house. Mrs. Maybrick had appeared tender and considerate in her treatment of her husband. A waiter at Flatman's hotel identified the prisoner as the woman who had occupied a bed-room in the hotel with one Brierley. The prosecution then announced that its case was closed. Sir Charles Russell opened the case for the defence. He made a forcible speech in which he urged that the jury could not render a judgment against the accused based on a probability, even if supported by an apparent motive for the commission of a crime, if there was a shadow of doubt.

Were Each to Receive $500 for Killing John A. Rose.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MT. STERLING, Ky., Aug. 3.—On Monday last James Combs, Jesse Barnett and Charles Wall were arrested in Breathitt County on suspicion of having murdered John A. Rose 10 days ago in Powell County. At the examination trial Combs made a full confession and afterward Barnett did the same. Combs says he and Barnett were hired by Goodloe Combs, a Deputy Sheriff of Breatnitt County and a cousin of James Combe, to kill Rose, who promised to furnish the pistols and pay each of them $500. He says Goodlore Combs told him James Hall was to furnish the money. D. Hall, a brother of James Hall was killed by Rose a year ago. Combs says he and Barnett overtook Rose the day he was killed and had some words with him and then passed on, and hid and shot him when he came up. Hall is held as a witness.

One of the Finest in the Country and Strictly Fire-Proof.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

BUFFALO, Aug. 3.—The event of the day in Buffalo is the opening of the new eight-story fire-proof hotel, "The Iroquois," erected on the site of the "Richmond," which was destroyed by fire March 18, 1887, with a loss of 18 lives. The new structure is one of the finest hotels in the country and will accommodate 400 guests. It is the property of the Buffalo Library Association and the lessees are Woolley & Gerrans. The architect was Cyrus L. W. Eidlitz, of New-York. The building is strictly fire-proof, constructed in the most substantial manner, and splendidly furnished. There are 2,450 electric lights throughout the house, the dynamos for which are in the basement.

EXPLOSION OF AN EXPRESS TRAIN.

Messenger Killed and the Car Completely Wrecked—Inquest Held.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

MONTREAL, Aug. 3.—Last night when the train for Quebec on the Grand Trunk Railway had passed St. Louis, after going through the Victoria bridge, an explosion took place in the express car by which the messenger, named Rogers, was killed, the car completely wrecked and the express matter destroyed. Wild rumors are afloat that it was an attempt to blow up the Victoria bridge and was delayed too long. An inquest was held this afternoon.

Ice Trust Broken Up.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 3.—The Ice Trust, which, since the beginning of the season, has kept prices up to 140 per cent. more than was charged last year regardless of protests and public indignation, has collapsed. The break resulted from an attempt to force prices still higher. One of the dealers refused to agree to the proposition and withdrew from the compact. He has a supply of ice sufficient for the whole City, he states, and has reduced prices 50 per cent.

BLOODY FLUX EPIDEMIC IN THE WEST.

One Hundred and Eighty Cases and Fifteen Deaths in One Place.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CARTHAGE, Ill., Aug. 3.—A terrible epidemic of bloody flux has appeared at Warsaw, this County. It came last Monday in light form, and resembled dysentery, but on Wednesday it assumed a more serious phase, and now 15 people have died. Four deaths occurred Thursday and four yesterday, the victims being mostly children. One hundred and eighty cases are reported. Many of them, it is feared, will result fatally. The people are terror-stricken. The disease has also appeared at Hamilton, and is said to exist in epidemic form at Canton and Kahoka, Mo.

EMPEROR WILLIAM IN ENGLAND.

Review of British Fleet Postponed on Account of the Heavy-Rain.

By Cable to The Freeman.

LONDON, Aug. 3.—Emperor William of Germany was to have reviewed the British fleet in Spithead to-day, but the review has been postponed until Monday on account of a heavy storm. A steady rain fell all day and the haze was so thick that the fleet could not be seen from the shore. The wind was blowing half a gale. Great numbers of small craft were hovering about the fleet all the morning and the occupants of many of them were drenched. It is a holiday on the Stock Exchange to-day.

Agent Gardner Not Dishonest.

By Telegraph to The Freemen.

MUSKOGEE, I. T., Aug.—The evidence taken in the investigation of the misappropriation of money by the Creek delegates was filed yesterday by Agent Gardner. The taking of testimony abruptly closed after the delegates had testified that they paid ex-Governor Crawford the $228,000 alleged to have been unaccounted for. Agent Gardner expresses the opinion that ex-Governor Crawford will be indicted for receiving money belonging to the Creeks without having the approval of the Department, at which time all the facts, many of which could not be forced to the surface in the investigation, will be developed.

Will Resume Work Monday.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Judge Tuley was appointed Monday to arbitrate the differences between Purington, Kimbell & Company brick manufacturers, and their employes, who struck over a month ago for an eight-hour day without reduction of wages. The firm claimed their men were bound to work under a contract which was to remain in force until 1890, and which provided that wages should be graded according to the number of hours worked. Judge Tuley decided in the firm's favor, and it is understood the strikers in all the Blue Island and adjoining yards will resume work Monday.

President's Callers To-Day.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The President was in conference with Secretaries Windom and Tracy for two hours this morning in regard to certain New-York appointments which he desires to make, so it is said, before his departure for Bar Harbor Tuesday night. The rest of his time during the forenoon was devoted to Secretary Proctor, First Assistant Postmaster-General Clarkson and ex-Representative John S. Wise.

The Death Record.

Commodore William E. Fitzhugh died at Philadelphia this forenoon. He commanded the Iroquois, of the North-Atlantic Blockading Squadron, was present at the capture of Fort Morgan in 1864, and as Commander of the Ouchati received the surrender of the Confederate naval forces on Red River. At the time of his death he was in command of the naval station at New-London, Conn.

SPORTS OF THE DAY PARAGRAPHED.

Items of Interest in Relation to Base Ball And Other Matters.

Result of yesterday's ball games: National League: At Philadelphia—New-York 7, Philadelphia 0. At Washington—Boston 10, Washington 6. At Chicago—Chicago 8, Cleveland 7, 15 innings. At Pittsburgh—first game—Indianapolis 9, Pittsburgh 5; second game—Indianapolis 10, Pittsburgh, 5. American Association—At Brooklyn—St. Louis 6, Brooklyn 2. At Columbus—Kansas City 11, Columbus 2. At Baltimore—Baltimore 5, Cincinnati 2. At Philadelphia—Athletic 8, Louisville 1.

The game which was to have been played at Philadelphia Thursday by the Athletics and St. Louis does not go record as a victory for the Athletics, as Umpire Goldsmith did not so decide.

Manager Phillips, of Pittsburg, will, his physicians say, hardly recover. His disease is paresis. He will be removed to-day to an insane asylum. Worry over Pittsburgh's poor playing is believed to have unsettled his reason.

In running the bases the Brooklyns do not begin to take the chances the St. Louis do. Hence, fewer runs in proportion to men on bases.

The weather at Saratoga to-day was clear and sultry and the track heavy. In the first race, five furlongs, Milton won, Celia B. second, Major Tom third. Time 1:08. In the second race, one mile, Robin Hood won Minnie Palmer second, Culprit third. Time 1:51¼. In the third race, one mile and a half, Montrose won, Floodtide second, Pee Weep third. Time 2:48. In the fourth race, mile and a half and a furlong, May O. won, Whitenose second, King Crab third. Time 1:57. In the fifth race, selling, mile and a furlong, Prather won, Queen Elizabeth second, Royal Garter third. Time 2:05¾.

Jay Eye See, the phenomenal little gelding, owned by J. I. Case, of Racine, has gone lame and will not be trotted in any races this season. It is feared that it will never again appear on the race track. The lameness is the result of an accident at Lexington, Ky., five years ago. Jay Eye See's lowest record is 2:10.

In the unfinished pacing race at Cleveland yesterday, Lillian won the race to-day. Best time, 2:16. Allerton, a three-year-old stallion, trotted a mile in 2:19.

Johnston, the pacer, driven by Budd Doble at Cleveland yesterday, made a mile in the fast time of 2:06½.

By Tuesday morning the beautiful course on Lake Calumet at Pullman, Illinois, will be dotted with the tiny craft of the amateurs, who are to compete on Thursday and Friday for championship honors and the handsome emblem of the National Association. All the fastest scullers in the country are to meet in the Association's races, and the major portion of them will also participate in the programme of the Mississippi Valley Association, which will be rowed Thursday and Saturday. The races, it is expected, will be the finest ever witnessed there. The National Association events are classified into junior and senior single, pairs, doubles, fours, both junior and senior, and eight-oared, shell and barge races.

HEAVY SHOWERS IN NEW-YORK CITY.

Trains Delayed by Water and Mud on the Harlem Railroad.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 3.—This City was visited by several heavy showers to-day. A storm this morning delayed trains on the Harlem railroad two hours. The new tracks between Tremont and Mott Haven were covered with water to the depth of a foot and in many places were covered with mud and sand. Gangs of Italians waded ahead of each train and removed the obstructions. The tracks were only flooded for the distance of a little over a mile, yet it took two hours to cover the distance. As the New-York & New-Haven Road uses the same tracks as far as Mount Vernon, its trains were also delayed.

Lightning struck the flag-pole on the Police Station at the corner of Bedford and Lee avenues, Brooklyn, burned up the flag and injured the roof, besides badly frightening the officers. Lightning also caused an explosion and fire in the carpentering establishment of George Craign & Company in South Brooklyn, but the damage was not serious. The water came down in blinding sheets, causing the gutters to become roaring torrents. During the storm nearly 5,000 people were sheltered at the New-York end of the Brooklyn Bridge. At the same time the platform of the Third-Avenue Elevated Road terminus at the bridge was also packed with people. If the storm had continued an hour longer the crush would have been alarming.

THE STOCK AND MONEY MARKET.

Financial Doings on Wall-Street To-Day—The Closing Quotations.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Aug. 3.—The dullness in the stock market was as pronounced as usual this morning, except that the few active stocks did more business than of late. The opening was tame but weak and among the active stocks declines from last night's figures extended to 4 per cent. Sugar Trust was again very active, and in the regular list St. Paul, Missouri Pacific, Reading, Atchison and Cleveland, Columbus, Chicago & St. Louis took the lead, the others being dull and generally stagnant. There was a rally in the early dealings and prices were brought up to last night's figures and in some cases a shade beyond as in the cases of Reading and Atchison, each of which rose ½. Sugar was the feature of the dealings and on large business rapidly rose from 113 to 114¾, but afterwards reacted a fraction. At 11 o'clock the market was dull and steady to firm.

A CONDITION---NOT A THEORY.

Scene: Large excursion barge on the Hudson River! Many loving couples, some very spooney. Especially noticeable was one pair, Reginald Deepinlove and Arabella Sameway. After admiring the magnificent landscape and annihilating several pounds of bon-bons, Arabella lifted her loving eyes to her lover and uttered in plaintive tones: "Reginald do you really love me?" The young man almost fell fainting on the hard unpainted floor of the boat and exclaimed: "Arabella, my own, my dearest! I love you with all my heart; when can I call you mine?" Arabella, overcome by emotion and bon-bons, could only stammer: "When-- when— you take me to the Hudson River Furniture Company's store to purchase a set of handsome Antique Oak bed-room suits that I saw there a few days ago."

Scene: One day later—Two very happy people examining Antique Oak furniture at Hudson River Furniture Company's warerooms.

HILL AND THE SENATE.

The Albany Times, Gov. Hill's mouth organ, lets us a little further into the secret of Mr. Hill's program for carrying the Senate. We quote:

The condition of Republican affairs in this county is apparent. In Rensselaer there is a similar condition, two cliques being in such desperate hostility that they exhibit it in their private intercourse. In the Wayne-Ontario district, Speaker Cole's snap claim to the Senatorship is vigorously disputed, and in the Cayuga-Seneca district Senator Sweet as a candidate will have the powerful Patterson family of the Waterloo mills set dead against him. There is not a New York city Senatorial district and probably only one Brooklyn Senatorial district, the Republicans can hope to carry, while the First is likely to go Democratic, as well as the Twelfth, where Judge Robertson has aged beyond his period of usefulness, and in the Nineteenth, Hon. George S. Weed is expected to contest successfully the claims of the Republican leaders. In addition to all this, there is no reason to believe that any Senatorship now held by a Democrat, except possibly that of the Twenty-ninth (Monroe and Orleans), will be lost.

So the Governor is reaching out for a few Republican districts. He must carry the Albany, the Rensselaer and Washington, the Wayne, Ontario, Schuyler and Yates, the Cayuga, Seneca, Tompkins and Tioga, the Queens and Suffolk, the Westchester and Rockland, and the Clinton, Essex and Warren. Here are seven districts, one of which is represented by a Democrat at present. The Monroe-Orleans district is given up, so if all others are held, the net Democratic gain will be five or a total of seventeen, a bare majority. If the Democrats fail in a single instance the Senate will be tied, and if in two the Republicans will have a majority. Now to be perfectly fair we will show the vote by districts last fall, not on President, but upon the Governor himself, who reached the climax of his strength in that canvass:

SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT.

	Miller.	Hill.
Albany county	18,741	21,479.
Majority for Hill, 2,738.
SIXTEENTH DISTRICT.
Rensselaer	15,281	15,827
Washington	8,007	4,304
	23,288	20,131
Majority for Miller, 3,157.
NINETEENTH DISTRICT.
Clinton	6,213	4,576
Essex	4,993	2,977
Warren	4,057	2,944
	15,263	10,497
Majority for Miller, 4,766
TWENTY-SIXTH DISTRICT.
Cayuga	9,301	6,693
Seneca	3,552	3,731
Tioga	4,825	3,020
Tompkins	5,162	3,814
	22,840	17,858
Majority for Miller 4,982.
TWENTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT.
Wayne	7,675	5,258
Ontario	6,890	5,818
Schuyler	2,632	2,045
Yates	3,338	2,222
	20,535	15,343
Majority for Miller 5,192.
FIRST DISTRICT.
Queens	10,943	12,653
Suffolk	7,316	6,386
	18,259	19,039
Majority for Hill 780.
TWELFTH DISTRICT.
Westchester	13,967	14,185
Rockland	3,101	3,841
	17,068	18,326
Majority for Hill, 1,258.

Now here are two more districts, at present represented by Democrats, which that party must retain in order to capture the Senate:

THIRTEENTH District.

	Miller.	Hill.
Orange	11,220	10,854
Sullivan	3,772	3,825
	15,002	14,679
Majority for Miller, 323.
EIGHTEENTH DISTRICT.
Saratoga	8,608	6,573
Fulton and Hamilton	5,851	4,050
Montgomery	6,291	5,749
Schenectady	3,640	3,835
	24,390	20,287
Majority for Miller 4,103.

If everyone of these districts is carried by the Democrats, it will give them a majority of two—17 to 15. If there is a failure in a single one, the Senate will be tied. Six out of the nine repudiated the Governor last fall, on the very issue with which he proposes to go to the people again. The reliance upon divisions in the Republican ranks is a figment of the imagination. This news is confined to Democratic circles exclusively.

We wish to call attention especially to the twelfth district in closing. Mr. Hill's majority there was 1,258. But Mr. Cleveland carried the district by 2,173. In Westchester 460 Democrats, in Rockland 98 of the same party, repudiated Hill and cast their votes for Cleveland and Miller. Does Mr. Hill fancy that these Democrats will rally to his support when it is understood that he wants a Legislature to aid him in abolishing all restrictions upon the whisky traffic? It will hardly need the exceptional strength of Judge Robertson to prevent these Democrats from going back to the man whom they repudiated a year ago. As for Judge Robertson's aging beyond the period of his usefulness, we think the venerable editor of the Times must have intended a joke. The paper that supported Judge Thurman for Vice-President at 75 can hardly deem a man of 66 years too old for a State Senator. Judge Robertson will be found very useful at the coming election in keeping the twelfth district out of the grasp of the Democracy.

But this Democratic talk of carrying the Legislature is "guff." There is no doubt that Mr. Hill intends to make a very active canvass, to spend a great deal of money, and to sacrifice the state and local tickets if necessary for the Legislature. But his object is to prevent the Republicans from obtaining a two-thirds majority in both houses, of which he sees that the danger is imminent. He has no other hopes or aspirations beyond this. A two-thirds Republican majority means high license, ballot reform, the completion of the Capitol, and the political annihilation of David B. Hill.

THE FLACK DIVORCE SCANDAL.

The New York Sun shows commendable industry in hunting down Sheriff Flack's divorce transaction. Some interesting additional facts were obtained yesterday. The referee who heard the testimony and reported in favor of a divorce was Joseph Weeks, a clerk under Flack when he was County Clerk and a relative of Judge Monell who is Flack's counsel. The lawyer who represented Mrs. Flack was Benjamin Wright, and it was ascertained by an interview with him that Mrs. Flack did not appear at any of the hearings and that he had never even seen her. Mrs. Flack still insisted that she had never sued for a divorce, had never employed counsel, and knew nothing of the proceedings till she saw them in print. She had, on Mr. Flack's demand, and with a thorough understanding of the effect of the act, signed an agreement of separation which was brought to her by her son William, who she supposed was her friend. At the same time she signed another paper brought by her son, which she did not read, but which her son told her related to some property owned by her husband. She is now inclined to believe that she was betrayed by her son.

After the reporter had learned from lawyer Wright that he had never seen Mrs. Flack and that she had never attended any of the hearings, he went to the Sheriff himself. The latter was very positive that his wife had instituted the suit, and when the reporter told him what she had said, he bluntly declared that he did not believe it. He continued to assert that she attended the hearings. He then went off into a long complaint about the persecution to which he was subjected because of the offices that he had held and his connection with Tammany. He wound up by declaring that he had always treated his wife fairly, and that "she would say so now if they would let her."

The reporter then hurried off to Weeks, the referee, and told him Flack's assertions regarding the attendance of his wife at the hearings. He thought Mr. Flack must have been mistaken. When asked if he knew Mrs. Flack personally he refused to answer. Judge Monell, Flack's counsel, was next seen, and when asked if he had ever drawn up a paper for Mrs. Flack to sign, refused to answer.

Judge Bookstaver, who signed the decree of divorce, was found, and exhibited vexation over the scandal. He supposed the proceedings were regular, and did not wish to believe that he had been imposed upon. But the case could be reopened if Mrs. Flack wished, and if there had been any deception somebody would get badly punished.

Mrs. Flack is at Newburgh, and was interviewed yesterday. She adhered to her original statement, and promised to take legal measures for her protection. Her friends there say she is of sound mind, not addicted to stimulants or drugs, and has never made complaint of the infidelity of her husband. In fact she knew of no cause for which she could claim a divorce. It has been observed that in the complaint the name of the co-respondent is carefully concealed. An injured wife would hardly be as generous as this, but a husband who should plot such a bogus case as this appears to be would have very strong reasons for the concealment.

Gov. Hill has authority to remove Sheriffs from office. If the case is as bad as it appears for the Sheriff, he is a fit subject for the Governor's action. Mr. Hill can hardly do less than cause a thorough investigation.

ANOTHER QUEER DIVORCE.

A few days ago Judge George P. Andrews of the New York Supreme Court was married in London to the wife of Barrett Van Auken, a daughter of the late Commodore Garrison, a man of great wealth. When the wedding was reported it was remarked that Mr. Van Auken, the woman's husband, had been sent several years ago to a private insane asylum, but it was supposed he had died there. It now transpires that he is not dead, and that his wife went to Delaware last winter and obtained a quick divorce from the obliging Legislature.

It was in January that Mrs. VanAuken, in company with her daughter and a gentleman who called himself Mr. Judge, set up a stylish housekeeping establishment in Wilmington. Soon after their arrival an advertisement appeared in a Wilmington paper to the effect that Mrs. VanAuken would apply to the Legislature for a divorce. The application was not made till near the close of the session. The case was managed with great secresy, and a noted lobbyist was employed by the woman as counsel before the committee, even the reporters of the newspapers being "influenced" into silence. The committee reported in favor of the divorce, and it was rushed through the Legislature. "Some good fees," it is said, "were paid to secure this result." Mrs. Van Auken, now very happy, gave a pleasant dinner to her counsel and Gov. Biggs. She then took a hurried departure.

Now the suspicion is raised that the divorce is illegal, because the lady had rented the house for only a few months, and had never established a residence in the city. Under the law a person to obtain a divorce must be a resident, and this requires a full year within the state. Nevertheless the divorce will undoubtedly stand, as her new husband has influence and the woman herself has money. But the example set by a Judge of one of our highest courts is not a healthful one.

HOW PROTECTION "KILLS."

The Iron Industries of New England—A Bourbon Falsehood Answered.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Even if it is midsummer, it will not do to pass in silence the assertion of the Boston Post that "between 1880 and 1887, of the iron mills of Massachusetts, 36 per cent died of protection, * * * during the same period the production of rolled iron and steel in New England decreased 40 per cent. The industry may be considered dead—killed by protection." Not even fiendish weather would be an excuse for assertions so strange to truth. Massachusetts had in 1880, according to the directory published by the American Iron and Steel Association, twenty-five works, not including one which was abandoned in that year, and was ancient and unfit, having been built in 1800. The directory for 1888 showed that there were then in operation twenty iron mills in Massachusetts, and gave in detail the history of all the others. A decrease of five out of twenty-five is not 36 per cent. Moreover the annual capacity of works specified as operating in 1880 was 192,100 tons, besides 70,000 kegs of nails; the annual capacity of the works specified in 1888 was 226,000 tons, besides 407,000 kegs of nails and 25,000 car wheels. Does it hurt Massachusetts to have its best works enlarged, and its old and most decrepit concerns abandoned, when the net result is more workmen and more product?

"Killed by protection"—when the net product is greater than at any time before. The assertion is worthy of the source. One of the mills closed was that of the navy yard, and its fate was due to Democratic policy but not to tariff. Another went out of existence as a separate concern only because bought by one which is still running. One was built in 1815 and closed in 1887, being out of date; another was built in 1825, burned in 1866, and not considered worth rebuilding. In place of these, works with more modern and effective machinery went into operation, and the net product increased, and this is called killing by protection. The actual production in 1880 of all iron mills in Massachusetts was about 131,000 tons of iron and steel, nails included; in 1870 it was about 68,000 tons, and in 1860, as far as can be determined, not half so great, and this is called killing by protection. The actual product appears to have increased to nearly or quite 200,000 tons in 1888, and this is called killing by protection.

To waste more time on the assertions of the Boston Post would be foolish, since the "decrease in New England 40 per cent" is not more true than the "decrease in Massachusetts 36 per cent." But it is not a waste of time to consider what has happened when certain glass works have been closed, not by protection, as that journal asserts, but by the excellence and cheapness of natural gas at Pittsburg, and what would happen if superior advantages in other states should cause the stoppage of this or that iron mill. Is the Nation to abandon a policy which gives it vastly larger and cheaper supplies of iron and glass, because some works in this or that section are superseded by better? The New England people have never voted and never will vote for a course so narrow and stingy.

It has taken larger ideas and larger men to build this Nation. There never would have been these United States if the men of New England had cared nothing about the Carolinas, Virginia or New York, and only about themselves. There never would have been any encouragement of manufactures in the interior states if New England, having enormous advantages therein at the outset, had not patriotically fought for a National instead of a mean and selfish policy. In the great development and marvelous growth of the Nation as a whole, each and every section finds its rich reward. Thus has been secured a market, larger and more valuable than that of all the world beside, for the machines, tools and wire of New England, for its cloths and thread, its carpets and hats, its boots and shoes, its pins and sewing machines, its weapons and ammunition. The New Englander who cannot comprehend a policy which generations of New England patriots have steadily pursued, until they have made their section a marvel of prosperity, is a pitiful creature. He who wilfully misrepresents it is—a free trade Democrat.

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your Cuticura Remedies in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completly covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of Cuticura Resolvant, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the Cuticura on his sores and the Cuticura Soap in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the Cuticura Soap and rubbing in the Cuticura, one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement.

I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Cure Begins from First Application, and is Rapid, Radical And Permanent.

It is the mucous membrame, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelopes the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and other dangerous symptoms. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings. Sanford's Radical Cure, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, rarely fails; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell, and taste have been recovered, and the disease throughly driven out.

Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh

Consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and Improved Inhaler, all in one package; price $1. Ask for Sanford's Radical Cure. Sold everywhere

HILL AND THE SENATE.

The Albany Times, Gov. Hill's mouth organ, lets us a little further into the secret of Mr. Hill's program for carrying the Senate. We quote:

The condition of Republican affairs in this county is apparent. In Rensselaer there is a similar condition, two cliques being in such desperate hostility that they exhibit it in their private intercourse. In the Wayne-Ontario district, Speaker Cole's snap claim to the Senatorship is vigorously disputed, and in the Cayuga-Seneca district Senator Sweet as a candidate will have the powerful Patterson family of the Waterloo mills set dead against him. There is not a New York city Senatorial district and probably only one Brooklyn Senatorial district, the Republicans can hope to carry, while the First is likely to go Democratic, as well as the Twelfth, where Judge Robertson has aged beyond his period of usefulness, and in the Nineteenth, Hon. George S. Weed is expected to contest successfully the claims of the Republican leaders. In addition to all this, there is no reason to believe that any Senatorship now held by a Democrat, except possibly that of the Twenty-ninth (Monroe and Orleans), will be lost.

So the Governor is reaching out for a few Republican districts. He must carry the Albany, the Rensselaer and Washington, the Wayne, Ontario, Schuyler and Yates, the Cayuga, Seneca, Tompkins and Tioga, the Queens and Suffolk, the Westchester and Rockland, and the Clinton, Essex and Warren. Here are seven districts, one of which is represented by a Democrat at present. The Monroe-Orleans district is given up, so if all others are held, the net Democratic gain will be five or a total of seventeen, a bare majority. If the Democrats fail in a single instance the Senate will be tied, and if in two the Republicans will have a majority. Now to be perfectly fair we will show the vote by districts last fall, not on President, but upon the Governor himself, who reached the climax of his strength in that canvass:

SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT.

	Miller.	Hill
Albany county	18,741	21,479.

Majority for Hill, 2,738.

SIXTEENTH DISTRICT.

Rensselaer	15,281	15,827
Washington	8,007	4,304
	23,288	20,131

Majority for Miller, 3,157.

NINETEENTH DISTRICT.

Clinton	6,213	4,576
Essex	4,993	2,977
Warren	4,057	2,944
	15,263	10,497

Majority for Miller, 4,766

TWENTY-SIXTH DISTRICT.

Cayuga	9,301	6,693
Seneca	3,552	3,731
Tioga	4,825	3,620
Tompkins	5,162	3,814
	22,840	17,858

Majority for Miller 4,982.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT.

Wayne	7,675	5,258
Ontario	6,880	5,818
Schuyler	2,632	2,045
Yates	3,338	2,222
	20,535	15,343

Majority for Miller 5,192.

FIRST DISTRICT.

Queens	10,943	12,653
Suffolk	7,316	6,386
	18,259	19,039

Majority for Hill 780.

TWELFTH DISTRICT.

Westchester	13,967	14,485
Rockland	3,101	3,841
	17,068	18,326

Majority for Hill, 1,258.

Now here are two more districts, at present represented by Democrats, which that party must retain in order to capture the Senate:

THIRTEENTH District.

	Miller.	Hill.
Orange	11,230	10,854
Sullivan	3,772	3,825
	15,002	14,679

Majority for Miller, 323.

EIGHTEENTH DISTRICT.

Saratoga	8,608	6,573
Fulton and Hamilton	5,851	4,950
Montgomery	6,291	5,749
Schenectady	3,640	3,305
	24,390	20,287

Majority for Miller 4,103.

If everyone of these districts is carried by the Democrats, it will give them a majority of two—17 to 15. If there is a failure in a single one, the Senate will be tied. Six out of the nine repudiated the Governor last fall, on the very issue with which he proposes to go to the people again. The reliance upon divisions in the Republican ranks is a figment of the imagination. This news is confined to Democratic circles exclusively.

We wish to call attention especially to the twelfth district in closing. Mr. Hill's majority there was 1,258. But Mr. Cleveland carried the district by 2,173. In Westchester 460 Democrats, in Rockland 98 of the same party, repudiated Hill and cast their votes for Cleveland and Miller. Does Mr. Hill fancy that these Democrats will rally to his support when it is understood that he wants a Legislature to aid him in abolishing all restrictions upon the whisky traffic? It will hardly need the exceptional strength of Judge Robertson to prevent these Democrats from going back to the man whom they repudiated a year ago. As for Judge Robertson's aging beyond the period of his usefulness, we think the venerable editor of the Times must have intended a joke. The paper that supported Judge Thurman for Vice-President at 75 can hardly deem a man of 66 years too old for a State Senator. Judge Robertson will be found very useful at the coming election in keeping the twelfth district out of the grasp of the Democracy.

But this Democratic talk of carrying the Legislature is "guff." There is no doubt that Mr. Hill intends to make a very active canvass, to spend a great deal of money, and to sacrifice the state and local tickets if necessary for the Legislature. But his object is to prevent the Republicans from obtaining a two-thirds majority in both houses, of which he sees that the danger is imminent. He has no other hopes or aspirations beyond this. A two-thirds Republican majority means high license, ballot reform, the completion of the Capitol, and the political annihilation of David B. Hill.

THE FLACK DIVORCE SCANDAL.

The New York Sun shows commendable industry in hunting down Sheriff Flack's divorce transaction. Some interesting additional facts were obtained yesterday. The referee who heard the testimony and reported in favor of a divorce was Joseph Weeks, a clerk under Flack when he was County Clerk and a relative of Judge Monell who is Flack's counsel. The lawyer who represented Mrs. Flack was Benjamin Wright, and it was ascertained by an interview with him that Mrs. Flack did not appear at any of the hearings and that he had never even seen her. Mrs. Flack still insisted that she had never sued for a divorce, had never employed counsel, and knew nothing of the proceedings till she saw them in print. She had, on Mr. Flack's demand, and with a thorough understanding of the effect of the act, signed an agreement of separation which was brought to her by her son William, who she supposed was her friend. At the same time she signed another paper brought by her son, which she did not read, but which her son told her related to some property owned by her husband. She is now inclined to believe that she was betrayed by her son.

After the reporter had learned from lawyer Wright that he had never seen Mrs. Flack and that she had never attended any of the hearings, he went to the Sheriff himself. The latter was very positive that his wife had instituted the suit, and when the reporter told him what she had said, he bluntly declared that he did not believe it. He continued to assert that she attended the hearings. He then went off into a long complaint about the persecution to which he was subjected because of the offices that he had held and his connection with Tammany. He wound up by declaring that he had always treated his wife fairly, and that "she would say so now if they would let her."

The reporter then hurried off to Weeks, the referee, and told him Flack's assertions regarding the attendance of his wife at the hearings. He thought Mr. Flack must have been mistaken. When asked if he knew Mrs. Flack personally he refused to answer. Judge Monell, Flack's counsel, was next seen, and when asked if he had ever drawn up a paper for Mrs. Flack to sign, refused to answer.

Judge Bookstaver, who signed the decree of divorce, was found, and exhibited vexation over the scandal. He supposed the proceedings were regular, and did not wish to believe that he had been imposed upon. But the case could be reopened if Mrs. Flack wished, and if there had been any deception somebody would get badly punished.

Mrs. Flack is at Newburgh, and was interviewed yesterday. She adhered to her original statement, and promised to take legal measures for her protection. Her friends there say she is of sound mind, not addicted to stimulants or drugs, and has never made complaint of the infidelity of her husband. In fact she knew of no cause for which she could claim a divorce. It has been observed that in the complaint the name of the co-respondent is carefully concealed. An injured wife would hardly be as generous as this, but a husband who should plot such a bogus case as this appears to be would have very strong reasons for the concealment.

Gov. Hill has authority to remove Sheriffs from office. If the case is as bad as it appears for the Sheriff, he is a fit subject for the Governor's action. Mr. Hill can hardly do less than cause a thorough investigation.

ANOTHER QUEER DIVORCE.

A few days ago Judge George P. Andrews of the New York Supreme Court was married in London to the wife of Barrett Van Auken, a daughter of the late Commodore Garrison, a man of great wealth. When the wedding was reported it was remarked that Mr. Van Auken, the woman's husband, had been sent several years ago to a private insane asylum, but it was supposed he had died there. It now transpires that he is not dead, and that his wife went to Delaware last winter and obtained a quick divorce from the obliging Legislature.

It was in January that Mrs. VanAuken, in company with her daughter and a gentleman who called himself Mr. Judge, set up a stylish housekeeping establishment in Wilmington. Soon after their arrival an advertisement appeared in a Wilmington paper to the effect that Mrs. VanAuken would apply to the Legislature for a divorce. The application was not made till near the close of the session. The case was managed with great secresy, and a noted lobbyist was employed by the woman as counsel before the committee, even the reporters of the newspapers being "influenced" into silence. The committee reported in favor of the divorce, and it was rushed through the Legislature. "Some good fees," it is said, "were paid to secure this result." Mrs. Van Auken, now very happy, gave a pleasant dinner to her counsel and Gov. Biggs. She then took a hurried departure.

Now the suspicion is raised that the divorce is illegal, because the lady had rented the house for only a few months, and had never established a residence in the city. Under the law a person to obtain a divorce must be a resident, and this requires a full year within the state. Nevertheless the divorce will undoubtedly stand, as her new husband has influence and the woman herself has money. But the example set by a Judge of one of our highest courts is not a healthful one.

HOW PROTECTION "KILLS."

The Iron Industries of New England—A Bourbon Falsehood Answered.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Even if it is midsummer, it will not do to pass in silence the assertion of the Boston Post that "between 1880 and 1887, of the iron mills of Massachusetts, 36 per cent died of protection, * * * during the same period the production of rolled iron and steel in New England decreased 40 per cent. The industry may be considered dead—killed by protection." Not even fiendish weather would be an excuse for assertions so strange to truth. Massachusetts had in 1880, according to the directory published by the American Iron and Steel Association, twenty-five works, not including one which was abandoned in that year, and was ancient and unfit, having been built in 1809. The directory for 1888 showed that there were then in operation twenty iron mills in Massachusetts, and gave in detail the history of all the others. A decrease of five out of twenty-five is not 36 per cent. Moreover the annual capacity of works specified as operating in 1880 was 192,100 tons, besides 70,000 kegs of nails; the annual capacity of the works specified in 1888 was 226,000 tons, besides 407,000 kegs of nails and 25,000 car wheels. Does it hurt Massachusetts to have its best works enlarged, and its old and most decrepit concerns abandoned, when the net result is more workmen and more product?

"Killed by protection"—when the net product is greater than at any time before. The assertion is worthy of the source. One of the mills closed was that of the navy yard, and its fate was due to Democratic policy but not to tariff. Another went out of existence as a separate concern only because bought by one which is still running. One was built in 1815 and closed in 1887, being out of date; another was built in 1825, burned in 1866, and not considered worth rebuilding. In place of these, works with more modern and effective machinery went into operation, and the net product increased, and this is called killing by protection. The actual production in 1880 of all iron mills in Massachusetts was about 131,000 tons of iron and steel, nails included; in 1870 it was about 68,000 tons, and in 1860, as far as can be determined, not half so great, and this is called killing by protection. The actual product appears to have increased to nearly or quite 200,000 tons in 1888, and this is called killing by protection

To waste more time on the assertions of the Boston Post would be foolish, since the "decrease in New England 40 per cent" is not more true than the "decrease in Massachusetts 36 per cent." But it is not a waste of time to consider what has happened when certain glass works have been closed, not by protection, as that journal asserts, but by the excellence and cheapness of natural gas at Pittsburg, and what would happen if superior advantages in other states should cause the stoppage of this or that iron mill. Is the Nation to abandon a policy which gives it vastly larger and cheaper supplies of iron and glass, because some works in this or that section are superseded by better? The New-England people have never voted and never will vote for a course so narrow and stingy.

It has taken larger ideas and larger men to build this Nation. There never would have been these United States if the men of New England had cared nothing about the Carolinas, Virginia or New York, and only about themselves. There never would have been any encouragement of manufactures in the interior states if New England, having enormous advantages therein at the outset, had not patriotically fought for a National instead of a mean and selfish policy. In the great developmeat and marvelous growth of the Nation as a whole, each and every section finds its rich reward. Thus has been secured a market, larger and more valuable than that of all the world beside, for the machines, tools and wire of New England, for its cloths and thread, its carpets and hats, its boots and shoes, its pins and sewing machines, its weapons and ammunition. The New Englander who cannot comprehend a policy which generations of New England patriots have steadily pursued, until they have made their section a marvel of prosperity, is a pitiful creature. He who wilfully misrepresents it is—a free trade Democrat.

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your Cuticura Remedies in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completly covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did. He took one and one-half bottles of Cuticura Resolvant, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the Cuticura on his sores and the Cuticura Soap in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the Cuticura Soap and rubbing in the Cuticura, one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. JOHN R. BERO,

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Cure Begins from First Application, and is Rapid, Radical And Permanent.

It is the mucous membrane, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelopes the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and other dangerous symptoms. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings. Sanford's Radical Cure, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, rarely fails; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell, and taste have been recovered, and the disease throughly driven out.

Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh

Consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and Improved Inhaler, all in one package; price $1. Ask for Sanford's Radical Cure. Sold everywhere

HILL AND THE SENATE.

The Albany Times, Gov. Hill's mouth organ, lets us a little further into the secret of Mr. Hill's program for carrying the Senate. We quote:

The condition of Republican affairs in this county is apparent. In Rensselaer there is a similar condition, two cliques being in such desperate hostility that they exhibit it in their private intercourse. In the Wayne-Ontario district, Speaker Cole's snap claim to the Senatorship is vigorously disputed, and in the Cayuga-Seneca district Senator Sweet as a candidate will have the powerful Patterson family of the Waterloo mills set dead against him. There is not a New York city Senatorial district and probably only one Brooklyn Senatorial district, the Republicans can hope to carry, while the First is likely to go Democratic, as well as the Twelfth, where Judge Robertson has aged beyond his period of usefulness, and in the Nineteenth, Hon. George S. Weed is expected to contest successfully the claims of the Republican leaders. In addition to all this, there is no reason to believe that any Senatorship now held by a Democrat, except possibly that of the Twenty-ninth (Monroe and Orleans), will be lost.

So the Governor is reaching out for a few Republican districts. He must carry the Albany, the Rensselaer and Washington, the Wayne, Ontario, Schuyler and Yates, the Cayuga, Seneca, Tompkins and Tioga, the Queens and Suffolk, the Westchester and Rockland, and the Clinton, Essex and Warren. Here are seven districts, one of which is represented by a Democrat at present. The Monroe-Orleans district is given up, so if all others are held, the net Democratic gain will be five or a total of seventeen, a bare majority. If the Democrats fail in a single instance the Senate will be tied, and if in two the Republicans will have a majority. Now to be perfectly fair we will show the vote by districts last fall, not on President, but upon the Governor himself, who reached the climax of his strength in that canvass:

SEVENTEENTH DISTRICT.

	Miller.	Hill
Albany county	18,741	21,479.
Majority for Hill, 2,738.
SIXTEENTH DISTRICT.
Rensselaer	15,281	15,827
Washington	8,007	4,304
	23,288	20,131
Majority for Miller, 3,157.
NINETEENTH DISTRICT.
Clinton	6,213	4,576
Essex	4,993	2,977
Warren	4,057	2,944
	15,263	10,497
Majority for Miller, 4,766
TWENTY-SIXTH DISTRICT.
Cayuga	9,301	6,693
Seneca	3,539	3,731
Tioga	4,825	3,620
Tompkins	5,162	3,814
	22,840	17,858
Majority for Miller 4,982.
TWENTY-EIGHTH DISTRICT.
Wayne	7,675	5,258
Ontario	6,899	5,818
Schuyler	2,632	2,045
Yates	3,388	2,222
	20,535	15,343
Majority for Miller 5,192.
FIRST DISTRICT.
Queens	10,943	12,653
Suffolk	7,316	6,386
	18,259	19,039
Majority for Hill 780.
TWELFTH DISTRICT.
Westchester	13,967	14,485
Rockland	3,101	3,841
	17,068	18,326
Majority for Hill, 1,258.

Now here are two more districts, at present represented by Democrats, which that party must retain in order to capture the Senate:

THIRTEENTH District.

	Miller.	Hill.
Orange	11,230	10,854
Sullivan	3,772	3,825
	15,002	14,679
Majority for Miller, 323.
EIGHTEENTH DISTRICT.
Saratoga	8,608	6,573
Fulton and Hamilton	5,851	4,660
Montgomery	6,291	5,749
Schenectady	3,640	3,305
	24,390	20,287
Majority for Miller 4,103.

If everyone of these districts is carried by the Democrats, it will give them a majority of two—17 to 15. If there is a failure in a single one, the Senate will be tied. Six out of the nine repudiated the Governor last fall, on the very issue with which he proposes to go to the people again. The reliance upon divisions in the Republican ranks is a figment of the imagination. This news is confined to Democratic circles exclusively.

We wish to call attention especially to the twelfth district in closing. Mr. Hill's majority there was 1,258. But Mr. Cleveland carried the district by 2,173. In Westchester 460 Democrats, in Rockland 98 of the same party, repudiated Hill and cast their votes for Cleveland and Miller. Does Mr. Hill fancy that these Democrats will rally to his support when it is understood that he wants a Legislature to aid him in abolishing all restrictions upon the whisky traffic? It will hardly need the exceptional strength of Judge Robertson to prevent these Democrats from going back to the man whom they repudiated a year ago. As for Judge Robertson's aging beyond the period of his usefulness, we think the venerable editor of the Times must have intended a joke. The paper that supported Judge Thurman for Vice-President at 75 can hardly deem a man of 66 years too old for a State Senator. Judge Robertson will be found very useful at the coming election in keeping the twelfth district out of the grasp of the Democracy.

But this Democratic talk of carrying the Legislature is "guff." There is no doubt that Mr. Hill intends to make a very active canvass, to spend a great deal of money, and to sacrifice the state and local tickets if necessary for the Legislature. But his object is to prevent the Republicans from obtaining a two-thirds majority in both houses, of which he sees that the danger is imminent. He has no other hopes or aspirations beyond this. A two-thirds Republican majority means high license, ballot reform, the competion of the Capitol, and the political annihilation of David B. Hill.

THE FLACK DIVORCE SCANDAL.

The New York Sun shows commendable industry in hunting down Sheriff Flack's divorce transaction. Some interesting additional facts were obtained yesterday. The referee who heard the testimony and reported in favor of a divorce was Joseph Weeks, a clerk under Flack when he was County Clerk and a relative of Judge Monell who is Flack's counsel. The lawyer who represented Mrs. Flack was Benjamin Wright, and it was ascertained by an interview with him that Mrs. Flack did not appear at any of the hearings and that he had never even seen her. Mrs. Flack still insisted that she had never sued for a divorce, had never employed counsel, and knew nothing of the proceedings till she saw them in print. She had, on Mr. Flack's demand, and with a thorough understanding of the effect of the act, signed an agreement of separation which was brought to her by her son William, who she supposed was her friend. At the same time she signed another paper brought by her son, which she did not read, but which her son told her related to some property owned by her husband. She is now inclined to believe that she was betrayed by her son.

After the reporter had learned from lawyer Wright that he had never seen Mrs. Flack and that she had never attended any of the hearings, he went to the Sheriff himself. The latter was very positive that his wife had instituted the suit, and when the reporter told him what she had said, he bluntly declared that he did not believe it. He continued to assert that she attended the hearings. He then went off into a long complaint about the persecution to which he was subjected because of the offices that he had held and his connection with Tammany. He wound up by declaring that he had always treated his wife fairly, and that "she would say so now if they would let her."

The reporter then hurried off to Weeks, the referee, and told him Flack's assertions regarding the attendance of his wife at the hearings. He thought Mr. Flack must have been mistaken. When asked if he knew Mrs. Flack personally he refused to answer. Judge Monell, Flack's counsel, was next seen, and when asked if he had ever drawn up a paper for Mrs. Flack to sign, refused to answer.

Judge Bookstaver, who signed the decree of divorce, was found, and exhibited vexation over the scandal. He supposed the proceedings were regular, and did not wish to believe that he had been imposed upon. But the case could be reopened if Mrs. Flack wished, and if there had been any deception somebody would get badly punished.

Mrs. Flack is at Newburgh, and was interviewed yesterday. She adhered to her original statement, and promised to take legal measures for her protection. Her friends there say she is of sound mind, not addicted to stimulants or drugs, and has never made complaint of the infidelity of her husband. In fact she knew of no cause for which she could claim a divorce. It has been observed that in the complaint the name of the co-respondent is carefully concealed. An injured wife would hardly be as generous as this, but a husband who should plot such a bogus case as this appears to be would have very strong reasons for the concealment.

Gov. Hill has authority to remove Sheriffs from office. If the case is as bad as it appears for the Sheriff, he is a fit subject for the Governor's action. Mr. Hill can hardly do less than cause a thorough investigation.

ANOTHER QUEER DIVORCE.

A few days ago Judge George P. Andrews of the New York Supreme Court was married in London to the wife of Barrett Van Auken, a daughter of the late Commodore Garrison, a man of great wealth. When the wedding was reported it was remarked that Mr. Van Auken, the woman's husband, had been sent several years ago to a private insane asylum, but it was supposed he had died there. It now transpires that he is not dead, and that his wife went to Delaware last winter and obtained a quick divorce from the obliging Legislature.

It was in January that Mrs. VanAuken, in company with her daughter and a gentleman who called himself Mr. Judge, set up a stylish housekeeping establishment in Wilmington. Soon after their arrival an advertisement appeared in a Wilmington paper to the effect that Mrs. VanAuken would apply to the Legislature for a divorce. The application was not made till near the close of the session. The case was managed with great secresy, and a noted lobbyist was employed by the woman as counsel before the committee, even the reporters of the newspapers being "influenced" into silence. The committee reported in favor of the divorce, and it was rushed through the Legislature. "Some good fees," it is said, "were paid to secure this result." Mrs. Van Auken, now very happy, gave a pleasant dinner to her counsel and Gov. Biggs. She then took a hurried departure.

Now the suspicion is raised that the divorce is illegal, because the lady had rented the house for only a few months, and had never established a residence in the city. Under the law a person to obtain a divorce must be a resident, and this requires a full year within the state. Nevertheless the divorce will undoubtedly stand, as her new husband has influence and the woman herself has money. But the example set by a Judge of one of our highest courts is not a healthful one.

HOW PROTECTION "KILLS."

The Iron Industries of New England—A Bourbon Falsehood Answered.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Even if it is midsummer, it will not do to pass in silence the assertion of the Boston Post that "between 1880 and 1887, of the iron mills of Massachusetts, 36 per cent died of protection, * * * during the same period the production of rolled iron and steel in New England decreased 40 per cent. The industry may be considered dead—killed by protection." Not even fiendish weather would be an excuse for assertions so strange to truth. Massachusetts had in 1880, according to the directory published by the American Iron and Steel Association, twenty-five works, not including one which was abandoned in that year, and was ancient and unfit, having been built in 1800. The directory for 1888 showed that there were then in operation twenty iron mills in Massachusetts, and gave in detail the history of all the others. A decrease of five out of twenty-five is not 36 per cent. Moreover the annual capacity of works specified as operating in 1880 was 192,100 tons, besides 70,000 kegs of nails; the annual capacity of the works specified in 1888 was 226,000 tons, besides 407,000 kegs of nails and 25,000 car wheels. Does it hurt Massachusetts to have its best works enlarged, and its old and most decrepit concerns abandoned, when the net result is more workmen and more product?

"Killed by protection"—when the net product is greater than at any time before. The assertion is worthy of the source. One of the mills closed was that of the navy yard, and its fate was due to Democratic policy but not to tariff. Another went out of existence as a separate concern only because bought by one which is still running. One was built in 1815 and closed in 1887, being out of date; another was built in 1825, burned in 1866, and not considered worth rebuilding. In place of these, works with more modern and effective machinery went into operation, and the net product increased, and this is called killing by protection. The actual production in 1880 of all iron mills in Massachusetts was about 131,000 tons of iron and steel, nails included; in 1870 it was about 68,000 tons, and in 1860, as far as can be determined, not half so great, and this is called killing by protection. The actual product appears to have increased to nearly or quite 200,000 tons in 1888, and this is called killing by protection

To waste more time on the assertions of the Boston Post would be foolish, since the "decrease in New England 40 per cent" is not more true than the "decrease in Massachusetts 36 per cent." But it is not a waste of time to consider what has happened when certain glass works have been closed, not by protection, as that journal asserts, but by the excellence and cheapness of natural gas at Pittsburg, and what would happen if superior advantages in other states should cause the stoppage of this or that iron mill. Is the Nation to abandon a policy which gives it vastly larger and cheaper supplies of iron and glass, because some works in this or that section are superseded by better? The New-England people have never voted and never will vote for a course so narrow and stingy.

It has taken larger ideas and larger men to build this Nation. There never would have been these United States if the men of New England had cared nothing about the Carolinas, Virginia or New York, and only about themselves. There never would have been any encouragement of manufactures in the interior states if New England, having enormous advantages therein at the outset, had not patriotically fought for a National instead of a mean and selfish policy. In the great development and marvelous growth of the Nation as a whole, each and every section finds its rich reward. Thus has been secured a market, larger and more valuable than that of all the world beside, for the machines, tools and wire of New England, for its cloths and thread, its carpets and hats, its boots and shoes, its pins and sewing machines, its weapons and ammunition. The New Englander who cannot comprehend a policy which generations of New England patriots have steadily pursued, until they have made their section a marvel of prosperity, is a pitiful creature. He who wilfully misrepresents it is—a free trade Democrat.

ECZEMA, ITCHY, SCALY, SKIN TORTURES.

The simple application of "Swayne's Ointment," without any internal medicine, will cure any case of Tetter, Salt Rheum, Ringworm, Piles, Itch, Sores, Pimples, Eczema, all Scaly, Itchy Skin Eruptions no matter how obstinate or long standing. It is potent, effective, and costs but a trifle

The peculiar purifying and building up powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla make it the very best medicine to take at this season.

THE VERDICT UNANIMOUS.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. One man took six bottles, and was cured of rheumatism of ten years' standing." Abraham Mare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my twenty years' experience is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others have added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only half a dollar a bottle, at VanDeusen Brothers', Rondout, and F. J. R. Clarke's, Kingston, drug stores.

THE CAPTAIN

Of good ship Storm King says: For the past five years I have used Sulphur Bitters on board my vessel, and have not lost a man. They are a sure preventive of all contagious fevers so incident to warm climates. Please send me at once two dozen bottles, and oblige J. Starret.

Do not despair of curing your sick headache when you can so easily obtain Carter's Little Liver Pills. They will effect a prompt and permanent cure. Their action is mild and natural.

They are deservedly popular over all others—Hop Plasters, quick-acting, pain-killing and soothing.

In vain the eyes are filled with light;
In vain the cheek with beauty glows,
Unless the teeth are pure and white.
Unless the breath is like the rose;
And Sozodont alone supplies
These beauties that we all so prize.

BEST IN THE WORLD.

Further Great Cures of Skin Diseases by Cuticura Remedies.

Boy one year and a half old. Face and body in a terrible condition, being covered with sores. Sulphur springs fail. Cured by Cuticura Remedies.

I have used your Cuticura Remedies in two cases where it proved to be successful. The first was in the case of a boy a year and a half old. His face and body were in a terrible condition, the former being completly covered with sores. I took him to the Massena Sulphur Springs, but he did not improve any. I was then advised to try the Cuticura Remedies, which I did. He took one and one half bottles of Cuticura Resolvant, when his skin was as smooth as could be, and is to-day. I used the Cuticura on his sores and the Cuticura Soap in washing him. He is now five years of age and all right. The other case was a disease of the scalp, which was cured by washing with the Cuticura Soap and rubbing in the Cuticura, one bottle of Cuticura Resolvent being used. They have proved successful in every case where I have advised the use of them. It is surprising how rapidly a child will improve under their treatment. I recommend them for any disease of the skin as being the best in the world. This is my experience, and I am ready to stand by my statement. JOHN R. BERO,
American House, Hogansburgh, N. Y.

An Unbearable Skin Disease Cured.

I have been afflicted since last March with a skin disease the doctors called Eczema. My face was covered with scabs and sores, and the itching and burning were almost unbearable. Seeing your Cuticura Remedies so highly recommended, concluded to give them a trial, using the Cuticura and Cuticura Soap externally, and Resolvent internally four months. I call myself cured, in gratitude for which I make this public statement. Mrs. CLARA A. FREDERICK, Broad Brook, Conn.

SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

Cure Begins from First Application, and is Rapid, Radical And Permanent.

It is the mucous membrame, that wonderful semi-fluid envelope surrounding the delicate tissues of the air and food passages, that Catarrh makes its stronghold. Once established, it eats into the very vitals, and renders life but a long-drawn breath of misery and disease, dulling the sense of hearing, trammeling the power of speech, destroying the faculty of smell, tainting the breath, and killing the refined pleasures of taste. Insidiously, by creeping on from a simple cold in the head, it assaults the membranous lining and envelopes the bones, eating through the delicate coats and causing inflammation, sloughing and other dangerous symptoms. Nothing short of total eradication will secure health to the patient, and all alleviatives are simply procrastinated sufferings. Sanford's Radical Cure, by Inhalation and by Internal administration, rarely fails; even when the disease has made frightful inroads on delicate constitutions, hearing, smell, and taste have been recovered, and the disease throughly driven out.

Sanford's Radical Cure for Catarrh

Consists of one bottle of the Radical Cure, one box Catarrhal Solvent, and Improved Inhaler, all in one package; price $1. Ask for Sanford's Radical Cure. Sold everywhere

IN FASHIONABLE SARATOGA.

WHAT A "FREEMAN" CORRESPONDENT HAS SEEN AND HEARD.

The Season at the Springs Nearing its Climax—Since Cottage Life Has Become Popular Many Handsome Residences Have Been Erected—The Schuyler Residence.

Miss Helen A. Johnson, the special correspondent of THE FREEMAN in New-York, is sojourning at Saratoga Springs. She writes from Trim Cottage as follows:

With the opening of the race-track and the vast influx of visitors pouring into the town by every train from every direction to witness the sport, to meet each other and exchange the news of the day, gossip a little on the hotel piazzas, etc., the season at Saratoga may be said to be nearing its climax. Everywhere about the streets the bustle and activity consequent upon the increase of visitors is apparent. Well-known faces seen year after year make themselves familiar as their owners congregate on the street corners, discussing the pros and cons of various horses, the little street-gamins, with their "Programme of the Races" thrust under every one's nose, men and women alike, for they know too well how many of the gentler sex are holding stakes on the winning or losing horse. "Carriage to the races" is the next cry in order, and as the law is not yet passed requiring the hackmen to take another stand, Broadway is still lined, and babel still reigns about the hour for starting, 11:30 A. M. Seated quietly on one of the grand piazzas one may get a glimpse of the style and fashion brought by this class to the town. It is conceded that many very nice people attend the races, and yet more remain quietly at home. Indeed the question is much discussed at present whether the races are an advantage or disadvantage to Saratoga, but as it remains unsettled I shall make no attempt to enlarge upon it.

There is a talk of bringing the Intercollegiate Boat Races here another year and reviving the wild enthusiam of former seasons when College colors were flying from every fair shoulder that passed and every buttonhole accompanying her, and Columbia and Yale and Princeton and Harvard cries were constantly heard upon the air. The glassy surface of Saratoga Lake with its green setting of hills and bushes affords a delightful rowing ground, so to speak, and the proper opportunities for conducting these races are all that is lacking to bring them here. The townspeople still have a vivid recollection of the excitement consequent upon the college triumphs a few years since, and it the boys wish to come they have only to make it known and have it well understood that everything will be conducted decently ard in order.

Since cottage life has become so popular here and so many elegant residences have been erected and become the permanent homes of numbers of wealthy families, these are naturally interested in the quiet, orderly aspect of the place and a most strict surveillance is kept over any and all persons who may be inclined to disturb its serenity. The population must be near 15,000 now and yet Saratoga is only a village with grass growing along the curb in many of its streets and a very decided suburban look away from the vicinity of the big hotels. As most of the natives own their houses and look upon the visitors as their legitimate prey, all their energies are devoted during the season to setting forth their most tempting snares for the traveler. And indeed unless one is fully posted he cannot imagine the immense amount of business done at these cottages as they are called, although they are in reality full-grown houses many of them, for instance like Trim Cottage, being large, long brick structures, three or four stories in height and containing 30 or 40 rooms. Where these are looked after by the owner and the catering is done in a good old-fashioned way, with genuine home-made white and brown bread, biscuits that melt in your mouth covered with real honey, vegetables of every kind and description, fresh from the farm this morning, delicious broiled chicken every day, and cakes and pies to make your mouth water, with all fruits in the season, the cottage is sure to be crowded. It is not everyone that sits down to a table equal to Mrs. Trim's, but when they do their footsteps naturally turn in this direction every time they enter Saratoga. Visitors are here from New-York, New-Orleans, New-England and all parts of the country.

The old Schuyler Mansion has become the subject of much comment recently, since it has been purchased by the Tammany Hall Sachems as a meeting place for their braves. It is magnificently located on the shore of Lake Saratoga, not far from the famous hostelry known as Moon's, although this has long since passed into other hands. The Mansion was built about 40 years ago by a genuine old Schuyler, descendent of the original John Schuyler of Revolutionary fame. The name is still perpetuated in Schuylerville a little distance off on the Hudson River. The story is told and believed in Saratoga that the degenerate grandson fled from his debtors in New-York to this place with $2,000,000 and lived here secretly and died.

There is a small building or chapel as it is supposed to have been, still standing, and rumor has it that there is an underground passage connecting it with the house into which the lonely man, if threatened with visitors whom he did not wish to see, retreated, securely locking himself away from the outer world until they retired. It is said, an attempt was made by digging down many feet to find this passage, but without success, and it was finally abandoned. The Club will probably use it for an ice-house. A similar old mansion, once belonging to a branch of the Schuyler family, is still standing on South Pearl-street, Albany. It is solidly built of brick with stone trimmings, and surrounded with extensive grounds. If these old buildings could talk what marvelous stories they would unfold. This one is now a "Home for Destitute Children," supported by the Roman Catholics and friendless little ones roam over the once proud ancestral grounds. Most of the rooms are large and convinently arranged for the purpose for which it was designed. It has been furnished in way to suit bachelors and is considered very desirable. The club is called the Kayaderasseras, which is the Indian name of a small creek in the neighborhood. I believe there are about 50 members, all well known as Tammany braves who have paid the dues, $150, and take their enjoyment as it comes.—HELEN A. JOHNSON.

WORK ON THE D. & H. CANAL DOCKS.

The Process of Loading and Unloading Vessels Described—"Loafers."

The process of loading and unloading vessels at the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's "Island Docks" here is an interesting sight for those who first witness it. It is also an excellent spot for the study of the rough side of human nature. At the present time about 400 men are employed in handling the large amount of coal that arrives daily at tidewater via the Canal from Honesdale. These men can be classified as follows: Shovellers, 100; trimmers, 100; wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders, 200. The shovellers and trimmers work by the piece, receiving so much per ton for unloading a boat and trimming the coal after it is dumped. The wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders are engaged by the day. They were pleased and surprised a few days ago when they learned that the Company had decided to advance their wages from $1.35 to $1.50 per day. There are a number of yearly men who are not included in the above list. A gang of shovellers—oftentimes called "loafers"—consists of three men, one of whom is hired by the Company, he engaging the other two. By this plan much labor and trouble is saved the Paymaster and his clerk. Only the name of the "boss of the gang" is on the pay roll. When he receives money for work done the matter of settling with the other members of the "gang" devolves upon him. Some of these men cannot read nor write, and it is amusing to witness a division of money. They are perfectly familiar with the denomination of coin and bills, and three piles are counted out—"one for 'Mike,' one for 'Tim' and one for mesilf," etc.—until the money has been counted. This they call dividing money into "three halves." The time of unloading a boat of 135 tons of coal by a gang of "loafers" is about eight hours, although the feat has been accomplished in less than four. If a "loafer" fails to "keep up his end" in shovelling coal he is advised to go to work on the streets, where the work is easy. The "boss" loses no time in replacing him with a man who can "keep the pace." The coal is hoisted in tubs by means of a mast, on which there is a long swinging boom, on which ropes are attached. Two tubs are used in unloading a boat. While the "loafers" are busy filling one of these tubs the second tub is on its way to the top of the heap, where it is dumped by one or two men as the case may be. It is the same way when coal is taken from one boat and dumped into another. When a screen is used it is placed on the edge of the hold of a vessel, the dust falling in a nook behind it. The dust is carried away in wheelbarrows. The height of the ambition of an illiterate "loafer" seems to be to out-do his fellow laborers in shovelling coal. If he can do this he boasts with patronable pride of his prowess with the shovel. The laborers engaged on the docks consist mainly of Irishmen, Germans, Negroes and Polanders. With possibly a few exceptions, the Irish and German workers are rated the best. The Germans, however, are steadier and more frugal than their Celtic brethren. When the bell in the lower office tower rings for the "day paid men" to begin their labors there is a hurrying and scurrying to the large scows that bear them across the slip to the docks. On their return, when the day's work is ended, these men, begrimed with coal dust, dip their brawny hands and arms into the water and "clean up" and put themselves in presentable shape to go home. The ringing of the bell does not startle the "loafers," who congregate around the office and stand on the weigh scales and wait for a "boat." Their names are called in turns so there can be no grounds for complaint. When the steam elevators were introduced here the shovellers were afraid that their vocation would be cut into so that their assignments would be few and far between. This has not been the case, but on the contrary the elevators have worked to their and the boatmen's advantage, as was demonstrated last year, when two elevators were run the season through. Quick dispatch was the result and a more brisk demand for coal than formerly. The canallers made one or more trips that they had in a number of years before.

It has been pointed out with surprise that but few serious accidents occur on these extensive works where there is so much heavy machinery and clumsy rigging. The Company is careful for the safety of its employes. Two competent riggers go the rounds of the docks every day to see that the masts and ropes are in shape to prevent accidents.

The men are employed about nine months in the year. There are number of employes who have worked steadily for the Company for 30 years. The men who shovel and trim coal are sound of body and limb, as the work they perform requires this. In the case of the "loafers," when they are at work it is an example of perpetual motion until the boat has been "put out."

A large number of boys earn good wages on the docks picking slate from the coal. They deposit the slate in a wooden box, for which they receive so much per box. They are glad to earn an honest penny, and after a hard day's work they go home happy and contented.

Owing to the growing demand for coal here the Company has found it necessary to increase the number of elevators. There are now five. The crew of an elevator consists of a captain, engineer, fireman, deckhand, screen-tender, shoot-tender, two "leg" men and a "tower man." The man in the tower keeps a watch on the upper part of the elevator. If he sees anything wrong he notifies the Captain. The shoot-tenders keep the coal from clogging in the runways. There are 64 buckets on one of these elevators, each one of which will hold 50 pounds of coal although about 25 to 30 pounds is the average amount a bucket takes up when the apparatus is in operation. Over 700 tons of coal have been transferred from one place to another by an elevator in a day. When a vessel of heavy draught is to be loaded elevators are taken out into the Hudson River, and the work is done there. When the Company's new dock on the edge of the Sleightburgh flats is completed large vessels will receive full cargoes there.

Fashion Notes.

The printed American silks brought out this season form some of the most attractive toilettes at the summer resorts. They are made of the printed silk alone, with velvet ribbon trimmings; or they form Empire gowns that open on a plain silk skirt and waist. These textiles also appear in Directoire fashion for matrons, with long, straight coat-tails and narrow panels falling softly over skirts of accordion-pleated China silk. These latter gowns are usually in black and white combinations—the panels are lined with white silk, and the China silk underskirt is trimmed with rows of black velvet ribbon or those of moire. The handsome toilettes in black and white are always admired by women of refined tastes, and this season there has been an elegant display of dresses of this description. In full dress have appeared demi-trained princesse robes of white silk strewn with black outline devices of flowers and leaves. The bodice and skirt draperies are made of black point d'esprit net. Black lace over white silk forms another ideal gown, and in more youthful black and white toilets, black lace over white lace has been charmingly worn. The corsages to many of these are devoid of darts. For ceremonious toilets much jet embroidery and ornaments are still as much the rage as if an entire novelty, and superb black transparent materials are profusely garnitured with ferns, flowers and foliage in cut-jet work of the most beautiful and expensive sort.

Violet-tinted silk serge over a kilted skirt of reseda faille shot with gold formed a rich and elegant 5-o'clock tea-gown recently worn. Gold and shaded tints in violet, reseda, and pale brown showed delicately in the embroidered bands on the Empire vest and petticoat. Ivy-green India cashmere composed another choice toilet, this lined down the fronts with palest golden-green surah. There was a Russian guimpe and close second sleeves under the open ones of cashmere, these made of green-and-gold brocade, matching the plain full underskirt.

NEWS FROM POINTS FAR AND NEAR.

Tidings in Brief that the Telegraph, Cable and Mail Have Brought.

London Public Opinion prints this: "The following is translated from 'Les Abus dans la Marine: Letters addressees au Temps,' by Paul Bourde: 'While in England 1,256 clerks were sufficient for the administration, the accounts and the control, including the Admiralty itself, in France, without counting the central administration, there were no fewer than 2,406. In England the dockyards were safely guarded by 309 police, who were also firemen; in France 1,930, or six times the number, were employed. In the English dockyards 16,000 workmen were found to be sufficient; in France, with a fleet less by two-fifths than the English, the complaints were incessant that 21,000 could not do the work. The number of combatants was overshadowed by the number of accessories; there were 38,000 men on shore for 39,000 on board ship, and 3,000 officials as against 1,800 officers. It follows, of course, that the money devoured by this parasitical growth is not available for construction. And not only that; in England the policy has been to diminish the number of establishments; in France the number has been kept up as it was in the old days of sailing ships, increased by the engine factories; and the expense of five dockyards, viz: Toulon, Rochefort, Lorient, Brest and Cherbourg, and two factories, Indret and Guerigny, is enormous. In England the value of the machinery, stores and buildings—of the dockyard plant—was estimated at 400,000,000 francs, and of the fleet at 800,000,000 francs. In France this was reversed; the plant was valued at 800,000,000 francs and the fleet at 400,000,000 francs.'"

General Theatrical Notes.

The dramatic critic of the London Times, in describing Bernhardt's death scene in "Lena," says: "Not a word is spoken; the scene from first to last is purely pantomimic. Her eye lights upon a dagger; she takes it up, examines it, and throws it down with a shudder. From a cupboard she next obtains a bottle of chloral, pours a fatal draught into a glass, and hastily swallows it, with a slight gesture of disgust. Then she walks about the room, and, discovering her husband's portrait on the mantlepiece, takes it down while the drug is visibly producing its effect upon her system. In a dazed condition she stumbles rather than falls upon a couch. Her husband is heard imploring admission to the locked apartment; she can hear his voice, but now she is powerless to respond. She can but clutch with her hands, so to speak, at the forgiveness he offers her, and when, having forced his way in, he rushes forward to clasp in his arms her inert form, she falls upon the floor dead. None of Mme. Barnhardt's famous death scenes equal this in intensity or thrilling effect; it is a marvelous tour de force."

Industrial Tidings.

The industry of wood carving, according to a recent publication, was introduced into Switzerland some 60 or 70 years ago by a native of Brienz named Christian Fischer, who used to spend his spare time in making trifling objects for sale. He started a night school for the benefit of the neighborhood, and thus laid the foundation of an industry which now gives employment to between 5,000 and 6,000 persons. He first conceived the idea of making tiny models of Swiss chalets, which at once found a ready sale.

WOMEN WHO CATCH TROUT.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH GAINED BY CAMPING OUT IN THE CATSKILLS.

Some Preparation That Should be Made And Precautions Taken—Proper Clothing and Equipments Which Add to the Comfort of Ladies While Roughing it, Etc.

Luring the salmo fontinalis from the deep pools of Catskill Mountain streams is an exciting pastime for City people who are spending the summer in the breezy range. A number of 'Yorkers' are camping out. One party, composed principally of ladies, has erected tents along a stream in a primeval forest. There are a sufficient number of male companions to attend to the drudgery of the camp, so that the ladies have nothing to do but lounge, sleep, read, eat and fish. The camp is on a high, rocky bluff, a short distance from where trout lurk. It is in a picturesque region. About 50 feet from where the tents are pitched is a precipice 60 feet in height. At its base the waters of the stream bound over rocks, forming a beautiful cascade. There are numerous deep and glassy pools and riffs where trout abound. The bottom of the camp ground is covered with lichen and needles of evergreen trees. It is a comparatively dry place, even after a storm. The tents contain all the comforts of camping out requirements referred to in former articles in THE FREEMAN. There are cots, mosquito nettings, heavy woolen blankets, books, rubber coats and blankets, a medicine chest, guns, rods, axes, hatchets, lanterns, sheet iron stove with cooking utensils, heated with kerosene oil, a hamper of mammoth proportions—as Dickens' has written, "one of these hampers which always awakens in a contemplative mind associations connected with cold fowl, tongue and bottles of wine."—etc. There are camp-chairs, hammocks, and, in the largest tent, a table made of saplings covered with a bright-colored cloth.

The ladies are inveterate "anglers" and they are generally successful. One of them goes every morning and usually catches a mess of trout for breakfast. Is it healthful for women to be in the woods? These ladies say they are growing strong and healthy. Two of them were so delicate when they started out that it was feared they would be unable to undergo prospective hardships. They have thrived wonderfully. The mountain air braced them, so that on the third day they walked two miles along a stream and threw in lines and hooks with a nerve and assiduity that boded ill for trout.

There is no good reason why women should not enjoy trout fishing. Of course, it is not to be supposed that women can tough it like men. Special preparation should be made for their convenience and comfort. To ride from a hotel or boarding house to a stream and fish and then return at night is arduous work. A woman not strong and robust will be unable to undergo this fatigue. If a heavy shower comes up during the trip all the worse, for the exposure will try a woman with even a hardy constitution. When women go trout fishing, it should be with due deliberation. A camp should be formed with an eye to comfort as well as to the beauty of the surroundings. Strong tents should be erected and plenty of camp comforts should be provided. This may require the services of a stout team of horses, a heavy wagon, and the assistance of one or two men. To receive the full benefit of camping out, the ladies must needs be willing to bear with some minor inconveniences. Some may say that camping out is expensive, but it is not so. The tents need not be purchased—they can be rented for the occasion. Plain provisions can be purchased at stores and markets near the Ulster & Delaware and Stony Clove & Catskill Mountain railroad stations as cheaply as in New York City, and country houses furnish bread, milk, eggs, etc., at reasonable rates. Trout, the most delicious of all dishes, costs nothing. It is safe to say that a party can live more economically in the mountains, camping out for a month or two, than they can at home.

A word or two as to dress: It is an important matter that it should be all of wool. A description of dresses worn by ladies while taking an outing in the Adirondacks, written by one of the party and published in Outing for August, having been practically tested and not found wanting, follows:

For roughing it, two suits of strong, light-weight dark twilled flannel, serge, linsey-woolsey or waterproof cloth were decided upon with full knickerbockers of the same material coming to the knee. No lining was used, the full skirts, reaching to the boot-tops and adjustable in length, were simply trimmed with a deep hem and a number of tucks. The blouse, or Norfolk plaited waist, had outside pockets, sailor collar, full sleeves, with cuffs buttoning tight at wrists and pointed detachable hood at the back for rain or extra warmth. Under the blouse an all-wool natural-colored corset with shoulder straps was worn, to which all the garments buttoned. As the patented article cost $4, some of the club members used neatly fitting high-necked under waists of well-shrunken gray or white tennis flannel which were readily washed. Next the skin a flannel undervest, preferably high-necked, and long-sleeved was always worn. With all this woolen the ladies were cooler, more comfortable and better protected against climatic changes than they would have been in cotton, besides vastly simplifying the question of washing. A broad-brimmed felt hat, which was light and shed the rain admirably, was voted picturesque, becoming and preferable to the unwieldly straw; stout woolen stockings and a pair of easy, high-laced, calf-skin boots, the stout soles and low heels being studded with small, round-headed, soft nails, for rock climbing, a pair of long-wristed chamois mousquetaire gloves, a mosquito net or veil fastened around the hat, with elastic and pretty soft-silk pongee handkerchief in place of a stiff collar, completed a costume both sensible and becoming. Besides, they each carried a tight metal box of matches, a small pocket-flask with some good spirits, to be used in case of faintness, thread needles, pins, a knife, pencil, sketch-book, court-plaster, bottle of pennyroyal or tar and oil for mosquitoes, slippers, rubbers, a gossamer water-proof, a rubber blanket, a heavy Scotch-plaid shawl or a pair of gray camping blankets, with necessary changes of underclothing, all wool.

Middle-aged and even old women may join in the pleasures of trout fishing. It is a mere matter of physical strength. Whoever has read Andrew Carnegie's "Four-in-Hand in Britain" will remember that his mother, over 70 years of age, experienced the greatest delight in that coaching tour of over 800 miles. A woman 75 years of age has been the life and soul of a fishing party on the Neversink. It is good for women to be out of doors, and especially to be in the woods. American ladies should have health and strength as well as men. If they are strong physically they will be better every way—better fitted for the duties of wife and mother. They must, however, be careful not to injure themselves by undertaking tramps too great for their physical endurance. They must measure their strength. The advantage to women camping out along trout streams is that the weak ones, though they may tire themselves, are not called upon to do anything so exhausting as to be injurious. The young and strong, if they wish to give a greater variety to an outing than can be had in trout fishing, can do so by taking walks to mountain peaks.

Salacrium Along the Wallkill.

A large and very pretty plant growing along the banks of the Wallkill Creek attracts the attention of passengers on Wallkill Valley trains. It is known as the Salacrium. It grows to a height of several feet and has a handsome bright red flower. It is a native of the Southern States. Its appearance along the Wallkill is due to the fact that many years ago, when the making of woolen cloth was the principal industry along the Wallkill stream, the raw material was brought from the South. Some of the seed of the plant was brought in fleece, and, being thrown with other refuse into the stream, lodged on a little strip of land and taking root, was the progenitor of the thousands of plants that are now to be seen. The plant was first noticed in 1830.

IN FASHIONABLE SARATOGA.

WHAT A "FREEMAN" CORRESPONDENT HAS SEEN AND HEARD.

The Season at the Springs Nearing its Climax—Since Cottage Life Has Become Popular Many Handsome Residences Have Been Erected—The Schuyler Residence.

Miss Helen A. Johnson, the special correspondent of THE FREEMAN in New-York, is sojourning at Saratoga Springs. She writes from Trim Cottage as follows:

With the opening of the race-track and the vast influx of visitors pouring into the town by every train from every direction to witness the sport, to meet each other and exchange the news of the day, gossip a little on the hotel piazzas, etc., the season at Saratoga may be said to be nearing its climax. Everywhere about the streets the bustle and activity consequent upon the increase of visitors is apparent. Well-known faces seen year after year make themselves familiar as their owners congregate on the street corners, discussing the pros and cons of various horses, the little street-gamins, with their "Programme of the Races" thrust under every one's nose, men and women alike, for they know too well how many of the gentler sex are holding stakes on the winning or losing horse. "Carriage to the races" is the next cry in order, and as the law is not yet passed requiring the hackmen to take another stand, Broadway is still lined, and babel still reigns about the hour for starting, 11:30 A M. Seated quietly on one of the grand piazzas one may get a glimpse of the style and fashion brought by this class to the town. It is conceded that many very nice people attend the races, and yet more remain quietly at home. Indeed the question is much discussed at present whether the races are an advantage or disadvantage to Saratoga, but as it remains unsettled I shall make no attempt to enlarge upon it.

There is a talk of bringing the Intercollegiate Boat Races here another year and reviving the wild enthusiam of former seasons when College colors were flying from every fair shoulder that passed and every buttonhole accompanying her, and Columbia and Yale and Princeton and Harvard cries were constantly heard upon the air. The glassy surface of Saratoga Lake with its green setting of hills and bushes affords a delightful rowing ground, so to speak, and the proper opportunities for conducting these races are all that is lacking to bring them here. The townspeople still have a vivid recollection of the excitement consequent upon the college triumphs a few years since, and it the boys wish to come they have only to make it known and have it well understood that everything will be conducted decently and in order.

Since cottage life has become so popular here and so many elegant residences have been erected and become the permanent homes of numbers of wealthy families, these are naturally interested in the quiet, orderly aspect of the place and a most strict surveillance is kept over any and all persons who may be inclined to disturb its serenity. The population must be near 15,000 now and yet Saratoga is only a village with grass growing along the curb in many of its streets and a very decided suburban look away from the vicinity of the big hotels. As most of the natives own their houses and look upon the visitors as their legitimate prey, all their energies are devoted during the season to setting forth their most tempting snares for the traveler. And indeed unless one is fully posted he cannot imagine the immense amount of business done at these cottages as they are called, although they are in reality full-grown houses many of them, for instance like Trim Cottage, being large, long brick structures, three or four stories in height and containing 30 or 40 rooms. Where these are looked after by the owner and the catering is done in a good old-fashioned way, with genuine home-made white and brown bread, biscuits that melt in your mouth covered with real honey, vegetables of every kind and description, fresh from the farm this morning, delicious broiled chicken every day, and cakes and pies to make your mouth water, with all fruits in the season, the cottage is sure to be crowded. It is not everyone that sits down to a table equal to Mrs. Trim's, but when they do their footsteps naturally turn in this direction every time they enter Saratoga. Visitors are here from New-York, New-Orleans, New-England and all parts of the country.

The old Schuyler Mansion has become the subject of much comment recently, since it has been purchased by the Tammany Hall Sachems as a meeting place for their braves. It is magnificently located on the shore of Lake Saratoga, not far from the famous hostelry known as Moon's, although this has long since passed into other hands. The Mansion was built about 40 years ago by a genuine old Schuyler, descendent of the original John Schuyler of Revolutionary fame. The name is still perpetuated in Schuylerville a little distance off on the Hudson River. The story is told and believed in Saratoga that the degenerate grandson fled from his debtors in New-York to this place with $2,000,000 and lived here secretly and died.

There is a small building or chapel as it is supposed to have been, still standing, and rumor has it that there is an underground passage connecting it with the house into which the lonely man, if threatened with visitors whom he did not wish to see, retreated, securely locking himself away from the outer world until they retired. It is said an attempt was made by digging down many feet to find this passage, but without success, and it was finally abandoned. The Club will probably use it for an ice-house. A similar old mansion, once belonging to a branch of the Schuyler family, is still standing on South Pearl-street, Albany. It is solidly built of brick with stone trimmings, and surrounded with extensive grounds. If these old buildings could talk what marvelous stories they would unfold. This one is now a "Home for Destitute Children," supported by the Roman Catholics and friendless little ones roam over the once proud ancestral grounds. Most of the rooms are large and convinently arranged for the purpose for which it was designed. It has been furnished in way to suit bachelors and is considered very desirable. The club is called the Kavaderasseras, which is the Indian name of a small creek in the neighborhood. I believe there are about 50 members, all well known as Tammany braves who have paid their dues, $150, and take their enjoyment as it comes.—HELEN A. JOHNSON.

WORK ON THE D. & H. CANAL DOCKS.

The Process of Loading and Unloading Vessels Described—"Loafers."

The process of loading and unloading vessels at the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's "Island Docks" here is an interesting sight for those who first witness it. It is also an excellent spot for the study of the rough side of human nature. At the present time about 400 men are employed in handling the large amount of coal that arrives daily at tidewater via the Canal from Honesdale. These men can be classified as follows: Shovellers, 100; trimmers, 100; wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders, 200. The shovellers and trimmers work by the piece, receiving so much per ton for unloading a boat and trimming the coal after it is dumped. The wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders are engaged by the day. They were pleased and surprised a few days ago when they learned that the Company had decided to advance their wages from $1.35 to $1.50 per day. There are a number of yearly men who are not included in the above list. A gang of shovellers—oftentimes called "loafers"—consists of three men, one of whom is hired by the Company, he engaging the other two. By this plan much labor and trouble is saved the Paymaster and his clerk. Only the name of the "boss of the gang" is on the pay roll. When he receives money for work done the matter of settling with the other members of the "gang" devolves upon him. Some of these men cannot read nor write, and it is amusing to witness a division of money. They are perfectly familiar with the denomination of coin and bills, and three piles are counted out—"one for 'Mike,' one for 'Tim' and one for mesilf," etc.—until the money has been counted. This they call dividing money into "three halves." The time of unloading a boat of 135 tons of coal by a gang of "loafers" is about eight hours, although the feat has been accomplished in less than four. If a "loafer" fails to "keep up his end" in shovelling coal he is advised to go to work on the streets, where the work is easy. The "boss" loses no time in replacing him with a man who can "keep the pace." The coal is hoisted in tubs by means of a mast, on which there is a long swinging boom, on which ropes are attached. Two tubs are used in unloading a boat. While the "loafers" are busy filling one of these tubs the second tub is on its way to the top of the heap, where it is dumped by one or two men as the case may be. It is the same way when coal is taken from one boat and dumped into another. When a screen is used it is placed on the edge of the hold of a vessel, the dust falling in a nook behind it. The dust is carried away in wheelbarrows. The height of the ambition of an illiterate "loafer" seems to be to out-do his fellow laborers in shovelling coal. If he can do this he boasts with patronable pride of his prowess with the shovel. The laborers engaged on the docks consist mainly of Irishmen, Germans, Negroes and Polanders. With possibly a few exceptions, the Irish and German workers are rated the best. The Germans, however, are steadier and more frugal than their Celtic brethren. When the bell in the lower office tower rings for the "day paid men" to begin their labors there is a hurrying and scurrying to the large scows that bear them across the slip to the docks. On their return, when the day's work is ended, these men, begrimed with coal dust, dip their brawny hands and arms into the water and "clean up" and put themselves in presentable shape to go home. The ringing of the bell does not startle the "loafers," who congregate around the office and stand on the weigh scales and wait for a "boat." Their names are called in turns so there can be no grounds for complaint. When the steam elevators were introduced here the shovellers were afraid that their vocation would be cut into so that their assignments would be few and far between. This has not been the case, but on the contrary the elevators have worked to their and the boatmen's advantage, as was demonstrated last year, when two elevators were run the season through. Quick dispatch was the result and a more brisk demand for coal than formerly. The canallers made one or more trips that they had in a number of years before.

It has been pointed out with surprise that but few serious accidents occur on these extensive works where there is so much heavy machinery and clumsy rigging. The Company is careful for the safety of its employes. Two competent riggers go the rounds of the docks every day to see that the masts and ropes are in shape to prevent accidents.

The men are employed about nine months in the year. There are number of employes who have worked steadily for the Company for 30 years. The men who shovel and trim coal are sound of body and limb, as the work they perform requires this. In the case of the "loafers," when they are at work it is an example of perpetual motion until the boat has been "put out."

A large number of boys earn good wages on the docks picking slate from the coal. They deposit the slate in a wooden box, for which they receive so much per box. They are glad to earn an honest penny, and after a hard day's work they go home happy and contented.

Owing to the growing demand for coal here the Company has found it necessary to increase the number of elevators. There are now five. The crew of an elevator consists of a captain, engineer, fireman, deckhand, screen-tender, shoot-tender, two "leg" men and a "tower man." The man in the tower keeps a watch on the upper part of the elevator. If he sees anything wrong he notifies the Captain. The shoot-tenders keep the coal from clogging in the runways. There are 64 buckets on one of these elevators, each one of which will hold 50 pounds of coal although about 25 to 30 pounds is the average amount a bucket takes up when the apparatus is in operation. Over 700 tons of coal have been transferred from one place to another by an elevator in a day. When a vessel of heavy draught is to be loaded elevators are taken out into the Hudson River, and the work is done there. When the Company's new dock on the edge of the Sleightburgh flats is completed large vessels will receive full cargoes there.

Fashion Notes.

The printed American silks brought out this season form some of the most attractive toilettes at the summer resorts. They are made of the printed silk alone, with velvet ribbon trimmings; or they form Empire gowns that open on a plain silk skirt and waist. These textiles also appear in Directoire fashion for matrons, with long, straight coat-tails and narrow panels falling softly over skirts of accordion-pleated China silk. These latter gowns are usually in black and white combinations—the panels are lined with white silk, and the China silk underskirt is trimmed with rows of black velvet ribbon or those of moire. The handsome toilettes in black and white are always admired by women of refined tastes, and this season there has been an elegant display of dresses of this description. In full dress have appeared demi trained princesse robes of white silk strewn with black outline devices of flowers and leaves. The bodice and skirt draperies are made of black point d'esprit net. Black lace over white silk forms another ideal gown, and in more youthful black and white toilets, black lace over white lace has been charmingly worn. The corsages to many of these are devoid of darts. For ceremonious toilets much jet embroidery and ornaments are still as much the rage as if an entire novelty, and superb black transparent materials are profusely garnitured with ferns, flowers and foliage in cut-jet work of the most beautiful and expensive sort.

Violet-tinted silk serge over a kilted skirt of reseda faille shot with gold formed a rich and elegant 5-o'clock tea-gown recently worn. Gold and shaded tints in violet, reseda, and pale brown showed delicately in the embroidered bands on the Empire vest and petticoat. Ivy-green India cashmere composed another choice toilet, this lined down the fronts with palest golden-green surah. There was a Russian guimpe and close second sleeves under the open ones of cashmere, these made of green-and-gold brocade, matching the plain full underskirt.

NEWS FROM POINTS FAR AND NEAR.

Tidings in Brief that the Telegraph, Cable and Mail Have Brought.

London Public Opinion prints this: "The following is translated from 'Les Abus dans la Marine: Letters addressees au Temps,' by Paul Bourde: 'While in England 1,256 clerks were sufficient for the administration, the accounts and the control, including the Admiralty itself, in France, without counting the central administration, there were no fewer than 2,406. In England the dockyards were safely guarded by 309 police, who were also firemen; in France 1,950, or six times the number, were employed. In the English dockyards 16,000 workmen were found to be sufficient; in France, with a fleet less by two-fifths than the English, the complaints were incessant that 21,000 could not do the work. The number of combatants was overshadowed by the number of accessories; there were 28,000 men on shore for 39,000 on board ship, and 3,000 officials as against 1,800 officers. It follows, of course, that the money devoured by this parasitical growth is not available for construction. And not only that; in England the policy has been to diminish the number of establishments; in France the number has been kept up as it was in the old days of sailing ships, increased by the engine factories; and the expense of five dockyards, viz: Toulon, Rochefort, Loriend, Brest and Cherbourg, and two factories, Indret and Guerigny, is enormous. In England the value of the machinery, stores and buildings—of the dockyard plant—was estimated at 400,000,000 francs, and of the fleet at 800,000,000 francs. In France this was reversed: the plant was valued at 860,000,000 francs and the fleet at 400,000,000 francs.'"

General Theatrical Notes.

The dramatic critic of the London Times, in describing Bernhardt's death scene in "Lena," says: "Not a word is spoken; the scene from first to last is purely pantomimic. Her eye lights upon a dagger; she takes it up, examines it, and throws it down with a shudder. From a cupboard she next obtains a bottle of chloral, pours a fatal draught into a glass, and hastily swallows it, with a slight gesture of disgust. Then she walks about the room, and, discovering her husband's portrait on the mantlepiece, takes it down while the drug is visibly producing its effect upon her system. In a dazed condition she stumbles rather than falls upon a couch. Her husband is heard imploring admission to the locked apartment; she can hear his voice, but now she is powerless to respond. She can but clutch with her hands, so to speak, at the forgiveness he offers her, and when, having forced his way in, he rushes forward to clasp in his arms her inert form, she falls upon the floor dead. None of Mme. Barnhardt's famous death scenes equal this in intensity or thrilling effect; it is a marvelous tour de force."

In the new theatre for the performance of the Passion plays at Oberammergau, the stage represents a simple Greek temple. At either side rise two town gates, through the arches of which are seen the streets of Jerusalem, with the palaces of Pilate and the High-Priest, and the colonnades for the choirs and musicians.

The run of "The Profligate" for the present season at the London Garrick will come to an end to-night, but performances, with the original company and scenery, will be continued at Birmingham, Liverpool and Manchester. In the autumn the piece will be revived at the Garrick.

Industrial Tidings.

The industry of wood carving, according to a recent publication, was introduced into Switzerland some 60 or 70 years ago by a native of Brienz named Christian Fischer, who used to spend his spare time in making trifling objects for sale. He started a night school for the benefit of the neighborhood, and thus laid the foundation of an industry which now gives employment to between 5,000 and 6,000 persons. He first conceived the idea of making tiny models of Swiss chalets, which at once found a ready sale.

WOMEN WHO CATCH TROUT.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH GAINED BY CAMPING OUT IN THE CATSKILLS.

Some Preparation That Should be Made And Precautions Taken. Proper Clothing and Equipments Which Add to the Comfort of Ladies While Roughing it, Etc.

Luring the salmo fontinalis from the deep pools of Catskill Mountain streams is an exciting pastime for City people who are spending the summer in the breezy range. A number of 'Yorkers' are camping out. One party, composed principally of ladies, has erected tents along a stream in a primeval forest. There are a sufficient number of male companions to attend to the drudgery of the camp, so that the ladies have nothing to do but lounge, sleep, read, eat and fish. The camp is on a high, rocky bluff, a short distance from where trout lurk. It is in a picturesque region. About 50 feet from where the tents are pitched is a precipice 60 feet in height. At its base the waters of the stream bound over rocks, forming a beautiful cascade. There are numerous deep and glassy pools and riffs where trout abound. The bottom of the camp ground is covered with lichen and needles of evergreen trees. It is a comparatively dry place, even after a storm. The tents contain all the comforts of camping out requirements referred to in former articles in THE FREEMAN. There are cots, mosquito nettings, heavy woolen blankets, books, rubber coats and blankets, a medicine chest, guns, rods, axes, hatchets, lanterns, sheet iron stove with cooking utensils, heated with kerosene oil, a hamper of mammoth proportions—as Dickens' has written, "one of these hampers which always awakens in a contemplative mind associations connected with cold fowl, tongue and bottles of wine,"—etc. There are camp-chairs, hammocks, and, in the largest tent, a table made of saplings covered with a bright-colored cloth.

The ladies are inveterate "anglers" and they are generally successful. One of them goes every morning and usually catches a mess of trout for breakfast. Is it healthful for women to be in the woods? These ladies say they are growing strong and healthy. Two of them were so delicate when they started out that it was feared they would be unable to undergo prospective hardships. They have thrived wonderfully. The mountain air braced them, so that on the third day they walked two miles along a stream and threw in lines and hooks with a nerve and assiduity that boded ill for trout.

There is no good reason why women should not enjoy trout fishing. Of course, it is not to be supposed that women can tough it like men. Special preparation should be made for their convenience and comfort. To ride from a hotel or boarding house to a stream and fish and then return at night is arduous work. A woman not strong and robust will be unable to undergo this fatigue. If a heavy shower comes up during the trip all the worse, for the exposure will try a woman with even a hardy constitution. When women go trout fishing, it should be with due deliberation. A camp should be formed with an eye to comfort as well as to the beauty of the surroundings. Strong tents should be erected and plenty of camp comforts should be provided. This may require the services of a stout team of horses, a heavy wagon, and the assistance of one or two men. To receive the full benefit of camping out, the ladies must needs be willing to bear with some minor inconveniences. Some may say that camping out is expensive, but it is not so. The tents need not be purchased—they can be rented for the occasion. Plain provisions can be purchased at stores and markets near the Ulster & Delaware and Stony Clove & Catskill Mountain railroad stations as cheaply as in New-York City, and country houses furnish bread, milk, eggs, etc., at reasonable rates. Trout, the most delicious of all dishes, costs nothing. It is safe to say that a party can live more economically in the mountains, camping out for a month or two, than they can at home.

A word or two as to dress: It is an important matter that it should be all of wool. A description of dresses worn by ladies while taking an outing in the Adirondacks, written by one of the party and published in Outing for August, having been practically tested and not found wanting, follows:

For roughing it, two suits of strong, light-weight dark twilled flannel, serge, linsey-woolsey or waterproof cloth were decided upon with full knickerbockers of the same material coming to the knee. No lining was used, the full skirts, reaching to the boot-tops and adjustable in length, were simply trimmed with a deep hem and a number of tucks. The blouse, or Norfolk plaited waist, had outside pockets, rather collar, full sleeves, with cuffs buttoning tight at wrists and pointed detachable hood at the back for rain or extra warmth. Under the blouse an all-wool natural-colored corset with shoulder straps was worn, to which all the garments buttoned. As the patented article cost $4, some of the club members used neatly fitting high-necked under waists of well-shrunken gray or white tennis flannel which were readily washed. Next the skin a flannel undervest, preferably high-necked, and long-sleeved was always worn. With all this woolen the ladies were cooler, more comfortable and better protected against climatic changes than they would have been in cotton, besides vastly simplifying the question of washing. A broad brimmed felt hat, which was light and shed the rain admirably, was voted picturesque, becoming and preferable to the unwieldly straw; stout woolen stockings and a pair of easy, high-laced, calf skin boots, the stout soles and low heels being studded with small, round-headed, soft nails, for rock climbing, a pair of long-wristed chamois mosquito-taire gloves, a mosquito net veil fastened around the hat, with elastic and pretty soft-silk pongee handkerchief in place of a stiff collar, completed a costume both sensible and becoming. Besides, they each carried a tight metal box of matches, a small pocket-flask with some good spirits, to be used in case of faintness, thread needles, pins, a knife, pencil, sketch-book, court-plaster, bottle of pennyroyal or tar and oil for mosquitoes, slippers, rubbers, a gossamer water-proof, a rubber blanket, a heavy Scotch-plaid shawl or a pair of gray camping blankets, with necessary changes of underclothing, all wool.

Middle-aged and even old women may join in the pleasures of trout fishing. It is a mere matter of physical strength. Whoever has read Andrew Carnegie's "Four-in-Hand in Britain" will remember that his mother, over 70 years of age, experienced the greatest delight in that coaching tour of over 800 miles. A woman 75 years of age has been the life and soul of a fishing party on the Neversink. It is good for women to be out of doors, and especially to be in the woods. American ladies should have health and strength as well as men. If they are strong physically they will be better every way—better fitted for the duties of wife and mother. They must, however, be careful not to injure themselves by undertaking tramps too great for their physical endurance. They must measure their strength. The advantage to women camping out along trout streams is that the weak ones, though they may tire themselves, are not called upon to do anything so exhausting as to be injurious. The young and strong, if they wish to give a greater variety to an outing than can be had in trout fishing, can do so by taking walks to mountain peaks.

Salacrium Along the Wallkill.

A large and very pretty plant growing along the banks of the Wallkill Creek attracts the attention of passengers on Wallkill Valley trains. It is known as the Salacrium. It grows to a height of several feet and has a handsome bright red flower. It is a native of the Southern States. Its appearance along the Wallkill is due to the fact that many years ago, when the making of woolen cloth was the principal industry along the Wallkill stream, the raw material was brought from the South. Some of the seed of the plant was brought in fleece, and, being thrown with other refuse into the stream, lodged on a little strip of land and taking root, was the progenitor of the thousands of plants that are now to be seen. The plant was first noticed in 1830.

IN FASHIONABLE SARATOGA.

WHAT A "FREEMAN" CORRESPONDENT HAS SEEN AND HEARD.

The Season at the Springs Nearing its Climax—Since Cottage Life Has Become Popular Many Handsome Residences Have Been Erected—The Schuyler Residence.

Miss Helen A. Johnson, the special correspondent of THE FREEMAN in New-York, is sojourning at Saratoga Springs. She writes from Trim Cottage as follows:

With the opening of the race-track and the vast influx of visitors pouring into the town by every train from every direction to witness the sport, to meet each other and exchange the news of the day, gossip a little on the hotel piazzas, etc., the season at Saratoga may be said to be nearing its climax. Everywhere about the streets the bustle and activity consequent upon the increase of visitors is apparent. Well-known faces seen year after year make themselves familiar as their owners congregate on the street corners, discussing the pros and cons of various horses, the little street-gamins, with their "Programme of the Races" thrust under every one's nose, men and women alike, for they know too well how many of the gentler sex are holding stakes on the winning or losing horse. "Carriage to the races" is the next cry in order, and as the law is not yet passed requiring the hackmen to take another stand, Broadway is still lined, and babel still reigns about the hour for starting, 11:30 A. M. Seated quietly on one of the grand piazzas one may get a glimpse of the style and fashion brought by this class to the town. It is conceded that many very nice people attend the races, and yet more remain quietly at home. Indeed the question is much discussed at present whether the races are an advantage or disadvantage to Saratoga, but as it remains unsettled I shall make no attempt to enlarge upon it.

There is a talk of bringing the Intercollegiate Boat Races here another year and reviving the wild enthusiam of former seasons when College colors were flying from every fair shoulder that passed and every buttonhole accompanying her, and Columbia and Yale and Princeton and Harvard cries were constantly heard upon the air. The glassy surface of Saratoga Lake with its green setting of hills and bushes affords a delightful rowing ground, so to speak, and the proper opportunities for conducting these races are all that is lacking to bring them here. The townspeople still have a vivid recollection of the excitement consequent upon the college triumphs a few years since, and if the boys wish to come they have only to make it known and have it well understood that everything will be conducted decently and in order.

Since cottage life has become so popular here and so many elegant residences have been erected and become the permanent homes of numbers of wealthy families, these are naturally interested in the quiet, orderly aspect of the place and a most strict surveillance is kept over any and all persons who may be inclined to disturb its serenity. The population must be near 15,000 now and yet Saratoga is only a village with grass growing along the curb in many of its streets and a very decided suburban look away from the vicinity of the big hotels. As most of the natives own their houses and look upon the visitors as their legitimate prey, all their energies are devoted during the season to setting forth their most tempting snares for the traveler. And indeed unless one is fully posted he cannot imagine the immense amount of business done at these cottages as they are called, although they are in reality full-grown houses many of them, for instance like Trim Cottage, being large, long brick structures, three or four stories in height and containing 30 or 40 rooms. Where these are looked after by the owner and the catering is done in a good old-fashioned way, with genuine home-made white and brown bread, biscuits that melt in your mouth covered with real honey, vegetables of every kind and description, fresh from the farm this morning, delicious broiled chicken every day, and cakes and pies to make your mouth water, with all fruits in the season, the cottage is sure to be crowded. It is not everyone that sits down to a table equal to Mrs. Trim's, but when they do their footsteps naturally turn in this direction every time they enter Saratoga. Visitors are here from New-York, New-Orleans, New-England and all parts of the country.

The old Schuyler Mansion has become the subject of much comment recently, since it has been purchased by the Tammany Hall Sachems as a meeting place for their braves. It is magnificently located on the shore of Lake Saratoga, not far from the famous hostelry known as Moon's, although this has long since passed into other hands. The Mansion was built about 40 years ago by a genuine old Schuyler, descendent of the original John Schuyler of Revolutionary fame. The name is still perpetuated in Schuylerville a little distance off on the Hudson River. The story is told and believed in Saratoga that the degenerate grandson fled from his debtors in New-York to this place with $2,000,000 and lived here secretly and died.

There is a small building or chapel as it is supposed to have been, still standing, and rumor has it that there is an underground passage connecting it with the house into which the lonely man, if threatened with visitors whom he did not wish to see, retreated, securely locking himself away from the outer world until they retired. It is said an attempt was made by digging down many feet to find this passage, but without success, and it was finally abandoned. The Club will probably use it for an ice-house. A similar old mansion, once belonging to a branch of the Schuyler family, is still standing on South Pearl-street, Albany. It is solidly built of brick with stone trimmings, and surrounded with extensive grounds. If these old buildings could talk what marvelous stories they would unfold. This one is now a "Home for Destitute Children," supported by the Roman Catholics and friendless little ones roam over the once proud ancestral grounds. Most of the rooms are large and convinently arranged for the purpose for which it was designed. It has been furnished in way to suit bachelors and is considered very desirable. The club is called the Kavaderasseras, which is the Indian name of a small creek in the neighborhood. I believe there are about 50 members, all well known as Tammany braves who have paid their dues, $150, and take their enjoyment as it comes.—HELEN A. JOHNSON.

WORK ON THE D. & H. CANAL DOCKS.

The Process of Loading and Unloading Vessels Described—"Loafers."

The process of loading and unloading vessels at the Delaware & Hudson Canal Company's "Island Docks" here is an interesting sight for those who first witness it. It is also an excellent spot for the study of the rough side of human nature. At the present time about 400 men are employed in handling the large amount of coal that arrives daily at tidewater via the Canal from Honesdale. These men can be classified as follows: Shovellers, 100; trimmers, 100; wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders, 200. The shovellers and trimmers work by the piece, receiving so much per ton for unloading a boat and trimming the coal after it is dumped. The wheelers, dumpers, hoisters and screen-tenders are engaged by the day. They were pleased and surprised a few days ago when they learned that the Company had decided to advance their wages from $1.35 to $1.50 per day. There are a number of yearly men who are not included in the above list. A gang of shovellers — oftentimes called "loafers"—consists of three men, one of whom is hired by the Company, he engaging the other two. By this plan much labor and trouble is saved the Paymaster and his clerk. Only the name of the "boss of the gang" is on the pay roll. When he receives money for work done the matter of settling with the other members of the "gang" devolves upon him. Some of these men cannot read nor write, and it is amusing to witness a division of money. They are perfectly familiar with the denomination of coin and bills, and three piles are counted out—"one for 'Mike,' one for 'Tim' and one for mesilf," etc.—until the money has been counted. This they call dividing money into "three halves." The time of unloading a boat of 135 tons of coal by a gang of "loafers" is about eight hours, although the feat has been accomplished in less than four. If a "loafer" fails to "keep up his end" in shovelling coal he is advised to go to work on the streets, where the work is easy. The "boss" loses no time in replacing him with a man who can "keep the pace." The coal is hoisted in tubs by means of a mast, on which there is a long swinging boom, on which ropes are attached. Two tubs are used in unloading a boat. While the "loafers" are busy filling one of these tubs the second tub is on its way to the top of the heap, where it is dumped by one or two men as the case may be. It is the same way when coal is taken from one boat and dumped into another. When a screen is used it is placed on the edge of the hold of a vessel, the dust falling in a nook behind it. The dust is carried away in wheelbarrows. The height of the ambition of an illiterate "loafer" seems to be to out-do his fellow laborers in shovelling coal. If he can do this he boasts with pardonable pride of his prowess with the shovel. The laborers engaged on the docks consist mainly of Irishmen, Germans, Negroes and Polanders. With possibly a few exceptions, the Irish and German workers are rated the best. The Germans, however, are steadier and more frugal than their Celtic brethren. When the bell in the lower office tower rings for the "day paid men" to begin their labors there is a hurrying and scurrying to the large scows that bear them across the slip to the docks. On their return, when the day's work is ended, these men, begrimed with coal dust, dip their brawny hands and arms into the water and "clean up" and put themselves in presentable shape to go home. The ringing of the bell does not startle the "loafers," who congregate around the office and stand on the weigh scales and wait for a "boat." Their names are called in turns so there can be no grounds for complaint. When the steam elevators were introduced here the shovellers were afraid that their vocation would be cut into so that their assignments would be few and far between. This has not been the case, but on the contrary the elevators have worked to their and the boatmen's advantage, as was demonstrated last year, when two elevators were run the season through. Quick dispatch was the result and a more brisk demand for coal than formerly. The canallers made one or more trips than they had in a number of years before.

It has been pointed out with surprise that but few serious accidents occur on these extensive works where there is so much heavy machinery and clumsy rigging. The Company is careful for the safety of its employes. Two competent riggers go the rounds of the docks every day to see that the masts and ropes are in shape to prevent accidents.

The men are employed about nine months in the year. There are number of employes who have worked steadily for the Company for 30 years. The men who shovel and trim coal are sound of body and limb, as the work they perform requires this. In the case of the "loafers," when they are at work it is an example of perpetual motion until the boat has been "put out."

A large number of boys earn good wages on the docks picking slate from the coal. They deposit the slate in a wooden box, for which they receive so much per box. They are glad to earn an honest penny, and after a hard day's work they go home happy and contented.

Owing to the growing demand for coal here the Company has found it necessary to increase the number of elevators. There are now five. The crew of an elevator consisis of a captain, engineer, fireman, deckhand, screen-tender, shoot-tender, two "leg" men and a "tower man." The man in the tower keeps a watch on the upper part of the elevator. If he sees anything wrong he notifies the Captain. The shoot-tenders keep the coal from clogging in the runways. There are 64 buckets on one of these elevators, each one of which will hold 50 pounds of coal although about 25 to 30 pounds is the average amount a bucket takes up when the apparatus is in operation. Over 700 tons of coal have been transferred from one place to another by an elevator in a day. When a vessel of heavy draught is to be loaded elevators are taken out into the Hudson River, and the work is done there. When the Company's new dock on the edge of the Sleightburgh flats is completed large vessels will receive full cargoes there.

Fashion Notes.

The printed American silks brought out this season form some of the most attractive toilettes at the summer resorts. They are made of the printed silk alone, with velvet ribbon trimmings; or they form Empire gowns that open on a plain silk skirt and waist. These textiles also appear in Directoire fashion for matrons, with long, straight coat-tails and narrow panels falling softly over skirts of accordion-pleated China silk. These latter gowns are usually in black and white combinations—the panels are lined with white silk, and the China silk underskirt is trimmed with rows of black velvet ribbon or those of moire. The handsome toilettes in black and white are always admired by women of refined tastes, and this season there has been an elegant display of dresses of this description. In full dress have appeared demi trained princesse robes of white silk strewn with black outline devices of flowers and leaves. The bodice and skirt draperies are made of black point d'esprit net. Black lace over white silk forms another ideal gown, and in more youthful black and white toilets, black lace over white lace has been charmingly worn. The corsages to many of these are devoid of darts. For ceremonious toilets much jet embroidery and ornaments are still as much the rage as if an entire novelty, and superb black transparent materials are profusely garnitured with ferns, flowers and foliage in cut-jet work of the most beautiful and expensive sort.

Violet-tinted silk serge over a kilted skirt of reseda faille shot with gold formed a rich and elegant 5-o'clock tea-gown recently worn. Gold and shaded tints in violet, reseda, and pale brown showed delicately in the embroidered bands on the Empire vest and petticoat. Ivy-green India cashmere composed another choice toilet, this lined down the fronts with palest golden-green surah. There was a Russian guimpe and close second sleeves under the open ones of cashmere, these made of green-and-gold brocade, matching the plain full underskirt.

NEWS FROM POINTS FAR AND NEAR.

Tidings in Brief that the Telegraph, Cable and Mail Have Brought.

London Public Opinion prints this: "The following is translated from 'Les Abus dans la Marine: Letters addressees au Temps,' by Paul Bourde: 'While in England 1,256 clerks were sufficient for the administration, the accounts and the control, including the Admiralty itself, in France, without counting the central administration, there were no fewer than 2,406. In England the dockyards were safely guarded by 309 police, who were also firemen; in France 1,930, or six times the number, were employed. In the English dockyards 16,000 workmen were found to be sufficient; in France, with a fleet less by two-fifths than the English, the complaints were incessant that 21,000 could not do the work. The number of combatants was overshadowed by the number of accessories; there were 38,000 men on shore for 39,000 on board ship, and 3,000 officials as against 1,800 officers. It follows, of course, that the money devoured by this parasitical growth is not available for construction. And not only that; in England the policy has been to diminish the number of establishments; in France the number has been kept up as it was in the old days of sailing ships, increased by the engine factories; and the expense of five dockyards, viz: Toulon, Rochefort, Loriend, Brest and Cherbourg, and two factories, Indret and Guerigny, is enormous. In England the value of the machinery, stores and buildings—of the dockyard plant—was estimated at 400,000,000 francs, and of the fleet at 800,000,000 francs. In France this was reversed: the plant was valued at 800,000,000 francs and the fleet at 400,000,000 francs.'"

General Theatrical Notes.

The dramatic critic of the London Times, in describing Bernhardt's death scene in "Lena," says: "Not a word is spoken; the scene from first to last is purely pantomimic. Her eye lights upon a dagger; she takes it up, examines it, and throws it down with a shudder. From a cupboard she next obtains a bottle of chloral, pours a fatal draught into a glass, and hastily swallows it, with a slight gesture of disgust. Then she walks about the room, and, discovering her husband's portrait on the mantlepiece, takes it down while the drug is visibly producing its effect upon her system. In a dazed condition she stumbles rather than falls upon a couch. Her husband is heard imploring admission to the locked apartment; she can hear his voice, but now she is powerless to respond. She can but clutch with her hands, so to speak, at the forgiveness he offers her, and when, having forced his way in, he rushes forward to clasp in his arms her inert form, she falls upon the floor dead. None of Mme. Barnhardt's famous death scenes equal this in intensity or thrilling effect; it is a marvellous tour de force."

Industrial Tidings.

The industry of wood carving, according to a recent publication, was introduced into Switzerland some 60 or 70 years ago by a native of Brienz named Christian Fischer, who used to spend his spare time in making trifling objects for sale. He started a night school for the benefit of the neighborhood, and thus laid the foundation of an industry which now gives employment to between 5,000 and 6,000 persons. He first conceived the idea of making tiny models of Swiss chalets, which at once found a ready sale.

WOMEN WHO CATCH TROUT.

HEALTH AND STRENGTH GAINED BY CAMPING OUT IN THE CATSKILLS.

Some Preparation That Should be Made And Precautions Taken Proper Clothing and Equipments Which Add to the Comfort of Ladies While Roughing it, Etc.

Luring the salmo fontinalis from the deep pools of Catskill Mountain streams is an exciting pastime for City people who are spending the summer in the breezy range. A number of 'Yorkers' are camping out. One party, composed principally of ladies, has erected tents along a stream in a primeval forest. There are a sufficient number of male companions to attend to the drudgery of the camp, so that the ladies have nothing to do but lounge, sleep, read, eat and fish. The camp is on a high, rocky bluff, a short distance from where trout lurk. It is in a picturesque region. About 50 feet from where the tents are pitched is a precipice 60 feet in height. At its base the waters of the stream bound over rocks, forming a beautiful cascade. There are numerous deep and glassy pools and rifts where trout abound. The bottom of the camp ground is covered with lichen and needles of evergreen trees. It is a comparatively dry place, even after a storm. The tents contain all the comforts of camping out requirements referred to in former articles in THE FREEMAN. There are cots, mosquito nettings, heavy woolen blankets, books, rubber coats and blankets, a medicine chest, guns, rods, axes, hatchets, lanterns, sheet iron stove with cooking utensils, heated with kerosene oil, a hamper of mammoth proportions—as Dickens' has written, "one of these hampers which always awakens in a contemplative mind associations connected with cold fowl, tongue and bottles of wine."—etc. There are camp-chairs, hammocks, and, in the largest tent, a table made of saplings covered with a bright-colored cloth.

The ladies are inveterate "anglers" and they are generally successful. One of them goes every morning and usually catches a mess of trout for breakfast. Is it healthful for women to be in the woods? These ladies say they are growing strong and healthy. Two of them were so delicate when they started out that it was feared they would be unable to undergo prospective hardships. They have thrived wonderfully. The mountain air braced them, so that on the third day they walked two miles along a stream and threw in lines and hooks with a nerve and assiduity that boded ill for trout.

There is no good reason why women should not enjoy trout fishing. Of course, it is not to be supposed that women can rough it like men. Special preparation should be made for their convenience and comfort. To ride from a hotel or boarding house to a stream and fish and then return at night is arduous work. A woman not strong and robust will be unable to undergo this fatigue. If a heavy shower comes up during the trip all the worse, for the exposure will try a woman with even a hardy constitution. When women go trout fishing, it should be with due deliberation. A camp should be formed with an eye to comfort as well as to the beauty of the surroundings. Strong tents should be erected and plenty of camp comforts should be provided. This may require the services of a stout team of horses, a heavy wagon, and the assistance of one or two men. To receive the full benefit of camping out, the ladies must needs be willing to bear with some minor inconveniences. Some may say that camping out is expensive, but it is not so. The tents need not be purchased—they can be rented for the occasion. Plain provisions can be purchased at stores and markets near the Ulster & Delaware and Stony Clove & Catskill Mountain railroad stations as cheaply as in New-York City, and country houses furnish bread, milk, eggs, etc., at reasonable rates. Trout, the most delicious of all dishes, costs nothing. It is safe to say that a party can live more economically in the mountains, camping out for a month or two, than they can at home.

A word or two as to dress: It is an important matter that it should be all of wool. A description of dresses worn by ladies while taking an outing in the Adirondacks, written by one of the party and published in Outing for August, having been practically tested and not found wanting, follows:

For roughing it, two suits of strong, light-weight dark twilled flannel, serge, linsey-woolsey or waterproof cloth were decided upon with full knickerbockers of the same material coming to the knee. No lining was used, the full skirts, reaching to the boot-tops and adjustable in length, were simply trimmed with a deep hem and a number of tucks. The blouse, or Norfolk plaited waist, had outside pockets, sailor collar, full sleeves, with cuffs buttoning tight at wrists and pointed detachable hood at the back for rain or extra warmth. Under the blouse an all-wool natural-colored corset with shoulder straps was worn, to which all the garments buttoned. As the patented article cost $4, some of the club members used neatly-fitting high-necked under waists of well-shrunken gray or white tennis flannel which were readily washed. Next the skin a flannel undervest, preferably high-necked, and long-sleeved was always worn. With all this woolen the ladies were cooler, more comfortable and better protected against climatic changes than they would have been in cotton, besides vastly simplifying the question of washing. A broad-brimmed felt hat, which was light and shed the rain admirably, was voted picturesque, becoming and preferable to the unwieldly straw; stout woolen stockings and a pair of easy, high-laced, calf-skin boots, the stout soles and low heels being studded with small, round-headed, soft nails, for rock-climbing, a pair of long-wristed chamois mousquetaire gloves, a mosquito net or veil fastened around the hat, with elastic and pretty soft-silk pongee handkerchief in place of a stiff collar, completed a costume both sensible and becoming. Besides, they each carried a tight metal box of matches, a small pocket-flask with some good spirits, to be used in case of faintness, thread needles, pins, a knife, pencil, sketch-book, court-plaster, bottle of pennyroyal or tar and oil for mosquitoes, slippers, rubbers, a gossamer water-proof, a rubber blanket, a heavy Scotch-plaid shawl or a pair of gray camping blankets, with necessary changes of underclothing, all wool.

Middle-aged and even old women may join in the pleasures of trout fishing. It is a mere matter of physical strength. Whoever has read Andrew Carnegie's "Four-in-Hand in Britain" will remember that his mother, over 70 years of age, experienced the greatest delight in that coaching tour of over 800 miles. A woman 75 years of age has been the life and soul of a fishing party on the Neversink. It is good for women to be out of doors, and especially to be in the woods. American ladies should have health and strength as well as men. If they are strong physically they will be better every way—better fitted for the duties of wife and mother. They must, however, be careful not to injure themselves by undertaking tramps too great for their physical endurance. They must measure their strength. The advantage to women camping out along trout streams is that the weak ones, though they may tire themselves, are not called upon to do anything so exhausting as to be injurious. The young and strong, if they wish to give a greater variety to an outing than can be had in trout fishing, can do so by taking walks to mountain peaks.

Salacrium Along the Wallkill.

A large and very pretty plant growing along the banks of the Wallkill Creek attracts the attention of passengers on Wallkill Valley trains. It is known as the Salacrium. It grows to a height of several feet and has a handsome bright red flower. It is a native of the Southern States. Its appearance along the Wallkill is due to the fact that many years ago, when the making of woolen cloth was the principal industry along the Wallkill stream, the raw material was brought from the South. Some of the seed of the plant was brought in fleece, and, being thrown with other refuse into the stream, lodged on a little strip of land and taking root, was the progenitor of the thousands of plants that are now to be seen. The plant was first noticed in 1830.

THAT IS OF ESPECIAL INTEREST TO PEOPLE LIVING HERE.

Paragraphs Relating to Men and Matters That Have Happened or are Likely to Occur, Which Furnish "Easy" Reading to Those Interested in the City's Welfare.

The Board of Alms Commissioners held a meeting last night. There were present E. M. Brigham, William Turner, G. L Wachmeyer, Charles VanWoert, Henry Tietjen, Henry Koltz and David Mulholland.

The Secretary read the following communication from the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union:

To the Board of Alms Commissioners, Gentlemen:
We, the members of the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union, would earnestly petition your honorable Board to use your utmost power to enforce all laws in regard to closing of saloons on Sundays and the selling of intoxicants to minors and all violations of the law by the saloon element, so that the Lord's Day may be indeed a day of quiet and peace holy to the Lord. We subscribe ourselves for God and home and humanity. Yours respectfully, K. W. C. T. U.

Commissioner VanWoert, a member of the Committee on Laws, said that arrangements for the prosecution of violators of the excise law had been made but the Board's counsel was backward in pushing cases. A resolution that the Committee wait on counsel and "talk to him" was passed.

Alderman TenBroeck addressed the Board. He said that in his official duty as Health Inspector his attention had been called to a family in the Second Ward who was in destitute circumstances. The mother had died recently and 10 children are now ill with fever. Mrs. VanDeusen and another charitable lady had attended the afflicted ones and a nurse was needed. As the Board of Health had not the power to appoint a nurse he asked that the Alms Commissioners take some action in the matter.

William Scott, the Secretary of the Board, said that the family was receiving help from him and that he had asked the father of the children if anything more was required and the man had said that he and his daughter could take care of the patients.

The matter of prosecuting saloon keepers who sell on Sundays was discussed. Commissioner Koltz said that he had warned a certain saloon keeper to keep closed on Sundays and that the man roundly abused him and boasted that it was the best day in the week for his business.

Secretary Scott was granted permission to attend an Alms House Superintendents' convention in Plattsburgh in September.

The Secretary stated that last February a colored woman named Mary Coy, was sent to the Middletown Asylum and that she was discharged from there last week. The bill for her keeping was $106. Before she was taken to the Asylum Superintendent Scott took into his custody $52.10, two gold rings and a gold watch. The woman, who was present, asked for her property. The Superintendent was ordered to give the trinkets to their owner, but to keep the money for the present.

A bill of $299.93 was ordered paid D. W. Sparling, late counsel of the Board, for services.

A bill of $36.80, presented by a man who nursed a scarlet fever patient at Kingston Point, was laid aside. The nurse, it was stated, was engaged by the Board of Health and the bill should have been presented to the Common Council for payment.

Thomas O'Donnell is the owner of a mocking bird. Recently food that was placed in the cage disappeared so quickly that O'Donnell's attention was aroused. Last evening he solved the mystery. A mouse had found its way into the cage, and was fattening itself from the cups of feed. A trap was set and the mouse was caught.

During the trial of a case recently, those present were startled by one of the counsel addressing the Court as follows: "Your Honor, I call your attention to the fact that as the witness testified, he winked at me as much as to say 'Now you have got it!'" The Court cautioned the witness to confine himself to answering the questions.

A chemist who has analyzed a cigarette finds that it contains five deadly poisons—the oil in the paper, the oil of nicotine, saltpetre to preserve the tobacco, opium to make it mild and the oil in flavoring. This is a deadly combination.

A pretty sunset was witnessed from the Hudson River last evening. The sun was of a blood-red color, and the Rondout Lighthouse and the water in the Hudson River near by seemed as if a mass of fire.

HOW THE TOWS ARE "MADE UP" HERE

The Freighting Business Generally—Food for the Crews—Arrangement of Boats.

The freighting business on the Hudson River is brisk. It is not an uncommon sight to witness several large tows pass the mouth of the Rondout Creek every day.

At the present time, of the Cornell Company's fleet, the propellers John H. Cordts, J. C. Hartt and steamboats Oswego, McDonald and Austin tow between this port and New-York City. Each boat makes from two to three round trips a week. The Norwich and Valentine are on the Albany route, and they make three round trips a week each. Of the smaller boats the propeller I. M. North makes daily trips to Newburgh. Other boats go to Glasco, Saugerties, Hudson and points further up the Hudson.

Several tugs are used principally to bring large vessels into the Rondout Creek and to shift boats from dock to dock. The steamboat Pittson is employed exclusively in towing Delaware & Hudson Canal "loaded boats" from Eddyville to the Steamboat Dock and "light boats" back over the same route.

An average crew of a tow-boat running between Rondout and the Metropolis consists of a captain, a mate, two pilots, two engineers, four firemen, three deck-hands, a cook and a waiter. Provender for a round trip is as follows: Forty-eight pounds of fresh meat, several pounds of salt pork, one bushel of potatoes, two quarts of onions, four quarts of beets, 20 loaves of bread, one gallon of molasses, seven pounds of sugar, one and one-quarter pounds of coffee, half a pound of tea, two pounds of rice, two quarts of beans, two pounds of dried apples, six pounds of butter, three heads of cabbage, 14 quarts of milk, quarter-pound of pepper, small sack of salt, half-pound of baking-powder, 12 pounds of flour, soap and matches. These articles are given to the respective cooks by the store-keeper.

The New-York tows are made up at Kingston Point; the Albany tows in the Rondout Creek. Just now the tows average from 30 to 40 boats. Sometimes they are so large that "helpers" are required to take a flotilla to its destination. The boats are made up in tiers, the size of the craft regulating how many will be placed in each tier. If Delaware & Hudson Canal boats, four will be the number; if brick barges two will constitute a tier. Schooners are placed on the outside of a tow, on account of their bow-sprits, which would interfere and cause damage anywhere else.

Much devolves upon a captain in making up a flotilla. He is held responsible for details. He is required to keep a log, in which he registers the number of boats in the tow, the number he may "pick up" along shore, the time of leaving, time of passing Newburgh, time of arrival at destination, remarks concerning "any unusual occurrence," etc. On his return here he takes his report to Superintendent I. M. North.

It has been said that a tow cannot be put together unless there is a certain amount of grumbling on the part of boatmen.

Boatmen are expected to make fast their own lines wherever the captain in charge may direct. Sometimes a man will act "mulish" and refuse to obey a command, but the threat that he will be left behind generally induces him to change his mind.

The trip up or down the Hudson is a picturesque one.

NECESSITY OF PRESERVING FORESTS.

Trees Help to Retain Water and Moisture, and Prevent Sudden Freshets.

The heavy floods of the past spring and the present summer emphasize the fact that freshets are mainly caused by the great destruction of timber. Where there is a growth of wood, spongy soil holds rain water, thus storing up moisture; springs are fed and a regular supply given to the various streams, protecting the country from floods as well as from drouths. When trees are cut down, part of this power of storage is lost. During heavy rainfalls waters rush down mountains and hills and swell streams. These streams fall as rapidly as they rise, and oftentimes become so low during a dry season that the country which they should water becomes parched from lack of moisture.

In Ulster County, where thousands of acres have been denuded of timber for the purpose of supplying markets with lumber, tanneries with bark, etc., this has been the result to a considerable extent. As trees have been hewn down, floods have increased, and bridges have been carried away, causing great loss. This state of affairs has been more noticeable at foothills than on mountains. Trees do not grow to any great extent on mountain peaks. The tops of the mountains are usually covered with thick beds of moss and vegetation, which hold moisture. Evaporation is light at the height of from 3,000 to 4,000 feet. On lower plateaus, where hemlock has been cut for the bark, trunks of the trees have been left in the ground. These have formed a barrier, preventing vegetation from being washed away.

The agitation of the subject of destruction of timber has already been of benefit in the education of land owners. The observance of Arbor Day by school pupils of this State will result in great good in this direction.

Recently a farmer said he had cut an acre or two of trees on an elevated portion of his farm. In telling his experience he said: "My first loss was the drying up of a beautiful brook, which had its source in my grove and which ran down through a number of fields furnishing water for cattle while grazing during hot weather. Five times the value of the wood I sold would have been refused for this stream. In the vicinity of the place where the timber stood the ground became dry during a part of the summer. When rain fell it did not seem to absorb—the water ran down the hillsides, making great gullies and doing much damage, while the fields through which the brook flowed did not yield as good crops. I am now a firm believer in the value of woodland on a farm. I hold it will pay farmers to plant groves of trees on the higher portions of their land, if for no other purpose than to retain moisture."

Saugerties.

The excursion of Methodist ministers and laymen to Europe will leave New-York City on August 21. Saugerties people who will attend are the following: The Rev. J. N. Ramsey and wife, Miss S. Adams, William Maxwell, Wesley Shultis. They will precede the excursion party by sailing from New-York on Wednesday and joining it either at Naples or Paris.

Work on the new tram road, which is being laid out between this village and the West Shore Railroad tracks, was stopped on Monday, owing to rain. The new road will run parallel with the old tram road, forming a junction with it near the village.

A Novel Plan,
[From the Ellenville Press.]

Kingston officers having had some difficulty in serving papers at Port Jackson have adopted a new plan which works admirably. A person supposed to be a Methodist colporteur recently called upon Mrs. D. B. Bell with a lot of religious books and papers. While occupied in examining them, Mrs. Bell was served by the colporteur with documents issued by the Supreme Court, but no books were disposed of.

First Annual Fair,

The first annual fair of the Catskill Mountain Agricultural Society will be held at Margaretville on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 28, 29, and 30. Two thousand five hundred dollars in cash premiums are offered. On the first day there will be a bicycle contest for a purse of $30. On the second day there will be a base ball tournament. Third day a hose race for a purse of $100 and horse trotting.

What a Cabbage Dealer Said.

A dealer in cabbage here said to-day: "Cabbage is now sold at almost any price. Most of it is brought from Long Island. It is so ripe and rain has had such a damaging effect upon it, that the heads burst and rot sets in. In Ulster County, however, the crop is in better condition. Farmers are bringing the product to market, but not in large quantities."

Flooded With Water.

During the late rain storms Snyder's quarry, in the town of Rosendale, was flooded with 14 feet of water.

THIS CITY'S BUSINESS

AS TRANSACTED BY THE ALDERMEN LAST NIGHT.

Contract to Insure Public Buildings Awarded—The First Ward Sewers Again—Alms Commissioners Elected—The City Engineer Makes a Statement.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held last night. Mayor Newkirk presided.

After reading of the minutes the Mayor reported that the Committee on Public Buildings had received propositions from insurance agents regarding the insurance on public buildings, and that the Committee had decided to award the contract to C. V. DuBois for all the City insurance at 20 cents per $100 for three years, with the exception of the Mill-street engine house, which was placed at 50 per cent. Whole amount of insurance $65,000, being a reduction of over $800.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was adopted.

The Mayor spoke of the action of the State Board of Health in regard to First Ward sewers emptying into Esopus Creek. He said that the report was not favorable to the Childs system. He recommended that the main run no further than North-Front-street.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was received.

Alderman Kraft moved that the Committee on Sewers report to the Common Council at the next meeting what modifications shall be made in the construction of the main trunk for sewers of the First Drainage District, so as to confine the sewerage to be emptied into the Esopus Creek to the First Ward. Carried.

The Street Superintendent was ordered to remove a rock that overhangs Youmans-street.

Alderman Wieber moved that a portion of the curbing and guttering on Chester-street be paved with cobble stone.

The Mayor said that the City Engineer was responsible for allowing the paving to be made of broken stone instead of cobble stone.

The City Engineer said that the kind of pavement under the circumstances made not the slightest difference. He recommended that plank be used in an embankment.

The City Engineer made a statement regarding charges which had been made against him, that he was interested in contractors' work, coming from the fact that he had, at the request of Contractor Small, ordered for him some pipe for the Ravine-street sewer. This created a long discussion.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the Committee on Sewers was directed to recommend some manner in which the pipe of the Ravine-street sewer shall be inspected. Carried.

Alderman Murray moved that the City Engineer be discharged and John G. VanEtten be employed in his place.

After a lengthy discussion, during which a motion to adjourn was lost, a resolution by Alderman Thompson to lay the matter over until the next meeting was carried.

On motion of Alderman Hamburger the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk across Ravine-street at L. Kirchner's.

On motion of Alderman Dederick a cobble crossing at the head of Wynkoop-street and Foxhall-avenue was ordered laid.

An election of Alms Commissioners resulted: Second Ward, Charles Van Woert; Fifth Ward, David Muiholland; Eighth Ward, James G. Sweeney.

The City Clerk stated that Contractor Wilkinson objected to signing the contract for the grading of Warren-street. It was shown that Mr. Wilkinson had done some work on the street. Also that he had not signed the Chester-street contract.

Alderman Thompson moved if he did not sign the contract by the next meeting and give a bond, the contract be awarded to some other person.

On motion of Alderman Murray the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk on Hasbrouck-avenue at the foot of Livingston-street between Wurts and Hone-streets.

On motion of Alderman Wieber the Street Superintendent was directed to remove sand and dirt from Hunter-street.

On motion of Alderman Murray property owners on the easterly side of Union avenue, near Chester-street, were directed to lay curb and gutter within 20 days.

On motion of Alderman Dolson the Street Superintendent was directed to cut the weeds on Foxhall-avenue, from Stephan to Gage-street.

Alderman North, of the Auditing Committee, reported pay-roll audited $1,550.50. The report was adopted and warrants ordered issued for the same.

Alderman Wieber moved that a large hole on the Union avenue sewer be attended to by the Street Superintendent; also a cistern at St. Mary's rectory be filled in. Carried.

The Committee on Auditing Accounts reported that they had examined the report of the Excise Commissioners and it was correct. It was received and adopted.

Alderman Brinnier, of the Street Committee, reported recommending that Fair-street extension be left to the Street Superintendent to repair. That the macadamized streets be repaired, one-half the City force to be placed on those streets, commencing at Hasbrouck-avenue. Adopted.

Alderman Dederick reported that the committee to whom had been referred the contracts to furnish broken stone had been unable to agree, and referred the matter back to the Common Council.

The figures were read; Newark Cement Company 55 cents per ton at works, and 80 cents on cars in the City; Francis Madden, 93 cents at the crusher, $1.18 on the avenue from Hone-street to the railroad.

Alderman Dederick moved that all the stone used on the northerly side of City Hall be purchased from Francis Madden.

Alderman Thompson moved an amendment that the whole contract be given to the Newark Lime & Cement Company. The amendment was lost.

Alderman Dolson moved an amendment that all the stone be furnished by Madden for one year. Carried.

That Tired Feeling

Is experienced by almost everyone at this season and many people resort to Hood's Sarsaparilla to drive away the languor and exhaustion. The blood laden with impurities which have been accumulating for months, moves sluggishly through the veins the mind fails to think quickly, and the body is still slower to respond. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed. It purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, makes the head clear, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling, tones the nervous system, and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"My appetite was poor, I could not sleep, had headache a great deal, pains in my back, my bowels did not move regularly. Hood's Sarsaparilla in a short time did me so much good that I feel like a new man. My pains and aches are relieved, my appetite improved. I say to others who need a good medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see." GEORGE F. JACKSON, Roxbury Station, Conn.

Makes the Weak Strong.

"For years I was sick every spring, but last year took Hood's Sarsaparilla and have not seen a sick day since." G. W. SLOAN, Milton, Mass.

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring tonic, and I recommend it to all who have that miserable tired feeling." C. PARMELEE, 349 Bridge-street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood.

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite, purifying the blood and regulating the digestive organs, that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good." MRS. N. A. STANLEY Canastota, N. Y.

The Board of Alms Commissioners held a meeting last night. There were present E. M. Brigham, William Turner, G. L Wachmeyer, Charles VanWoert, Henry Tietjen, Henry Koltz and David Mulholland.

The Secretary read the following communication from the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union:

To the Board of Alms Commissioners, Gentlemen: We, the members of the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union, would earnestly petition your honorable Board to use your utmost power to enforce all laws in regard to closing of saloons on Sundays and the selling of intoxicants to minors and all violations of the law by the saloon element, so that the Lord's Day may be indeed a day of quiet and peace holy to the Lord. We subscribe ourselves for God and home and humanity. Yours respectfully, K. W. C. T. U.

Commissioner VanWoert, a member of the Committee on Laws, said that arrangements for the prosecution of violators of the excise law had been made but the Board's counsel was backward in pushing cases. A resolution that the Committee wait on counsel and "talk to him" was passed.

Alderman TenBroeck addressed the Board. He said that in his official duty as Health Inspector his attention had been called to a family in the Second Ward who was in destitute circumstances. The mother had died recently and 10 children are now ill with fever. Mrs. VanDeusen and another charitable lady had attended the afflicted ones and a nurse was needed. As the Board of Health had not the power to appoint a nurse he asked that the Alms Commissioners take some action in the matter.

William Scott, the Secretary of the Board, said that the family was receiving help from him and that he had asked the father of the children if anything more was required and the man had said that he and his daughter could take care of the patients.

The matter of prosecuting saloon keepers who sell on Sundays was discussed. Commissioner Koltz said that he had warned a certain saloon keeper to keep closed on Sundays and that the man roundly abused him and boasted that it was the best day in the week for his business.

Secretary Scott was granted permission to attend an Alms House Superintendents' convention in Plattsburgh in September.

The Secretary stated that last February a colored woman named Mary Coy, was sent to the Middletown Asylum and that she was discharged from there last week. The bill for her keeping was $106. Before she was taken to the Asylum Superintendent Scott took into his custody $52.10, two gold rings and a gold watch. The woman, who was present, asked for her property. The Superintendent was ordered to give the trinkets to their owner, but to keep the money for the present.

A bill of $299.93 was ordered paid D. W. Sparling, late counsel of the Board, for services.

A bill of $36.80, presented by a man who nursed a scarlet fever patient at Kingston Point, was laid aside. The nurse, it was stated, was engaged by the Board of Health and the bill should have been presented to the Common Council for payment.

A mouse had found its way into the cage, and was fattening itself from the cups of feed. A trap was set and the mouse was caught.

During the trial of a case recently, those present were startled by one of the counsel addressing the Court as follows: "Your Honor, I call your attention to the fact that as the witness testified, he winked at me as much as to say 'Now you have got it!'" The Court cautioned the witness to confine himself to answering the questions.

HOW THE TOWS ARE "MADE UP" HERE

The Freighting Business Generally—Food for the Crews—Arrangement of Boats.

The freighting business on the Hudson River is brisk. It is not an uncommon sight to witness several large tows pass the mouth of the Rondout Creek every day.

At the present time, of the Cornell Company's fleet, the propellers John H. Cordts, J. C. Hartt and steamboats Oswego, McDonald and Austin tow between this port and New-York City. Each boat makes from two to three round trips a week. The Norwich and Valentine are on the Albany route, and they make three round trips a week each. Of the smaller boats the propeller I. M. North makes daily trips to Newburgh. Other boats go to Glasco, Saugerties, Hudson and points further up the Hudson.

Several tugs are used principally to bring large vessels into the Rondout Creek and to shift boats from dock to dock. The steamboat Pittson is employed exclusively in towing Delaware & Hudson Canal "loaded boats" from Eddyville to the Steamboat Dock and "light boats" back over the same route.

An average crew of a tow-boat running between Rondout and the Metropolis consists of a captain, a mate, two pilots, two engineers, four firemen, three deck-hands, a cook and a waiter. Provender for a round trip is as follows: Forty-eight pounds of fresh meat, several pounds of salt pork, one bushel of potatoes, two quarts of onions, four quarts of beets, 20 loaves of bread, one gallon of molasses, seven pounds of sugar, one and one-quarter pounds of coffee, half a pound of tea, two pounds of rice, two quarts of beans, two pounds of dried apples, six pounds of butter, three heads of cabbage, 14 quarts of milk, quarter-pound of pepper, small sack of salt, half-pound of baking-powder, 12 pounds of flour, soap and matches. These articles are given to the respective cooks by the store-keeper.

The New-York tows are made up at Kingston Point; the Albany tows in the Rondout Creek. Just now the tows average from 30 to 40 boats. Sometimes they are so large that "helpers" are required to take a flotilla to its destination. The boats are made up in tiers, the size of the craft regulating how many will be placed in each tier. If Delaware & Hudson Canal boats, four will be the number; if brick barges two will constitute a tier. Schooners are placed on the outside of a tow, on account of their bow-sprits, which would interfere and cause damage anywhere else.

Much devolves upon a captain in making up a flotilla. He is held responsible for details. He is required to keep a log, in which he registers the number of boats in the tow, the number he may "pick up" along shore, the time of leaving, time of passing Newburgh, time of arrival at destination, remarks concerning "any unusual occurrence," etc. On his return here he takes his report to Superintendent I. M. North.

It has been said that a tow cannot be put together unless there is a certain amount of grumbling on the part of boatmen.

Boatmen are expected to make fast their own lines wherever the captain in charge may direct. Sometimes a man will act "mulish" and refuse to obey a command, but the threat that he will be left behind generally induces him to change his mind.

The trip up or down the Hudson is a picturesque one.

NECESSITY OF PRESERVING FORESTS.

Trees Help to Retain Water and Moisture, and Prevent Sudden Freshets.

The heavy floods of the past spring and the present summer emphasize the fact that freshets are mainly caused by the great destruction of timber. Where there is a growth of wood, spongy soil holds rain water, thus storing up moisture; springs are fed and a regular supply given to the various streams, protecting the country from floods as well as from drouths. When trees are cut down, part of this power of storage is lost. During heavy rainfalls waters rush down mountains and hills and swell streams. These streams fall as rapidly as they rise, and oftentimes become so low during a dry season that the country which they should water becomes parched from lack of moisture.

In Uister County, where thousands of acres have been denuded of timber for the purpose of supplying markets with lumber, tanneries with bark, etc., this has been the result to a considerable extent. As trees have been hewn down, floods have increased, and bridges have been carried away, causing great loss. This state of affairs has been more noticeable at foothills than on mountains. Trees do not grow to any great extent on mountain peaks. The tops of the mountains are usually covered with thick beds of moss and vegetation, which hold moisture. Evaporation is light at the height of from 3,000 to 4,000 feet. On lower plateaus, where hemlock has been cut for the bark, trunks of the trees have been left in the ground. These have formed a barrier, preventing vegetation from being washed away.

The agitation of the subject of destruction of timber has already been of benefit in the education of land owners. The observance of Arbor Day by school pupils of this State will result in great good in this direction.

Recently a farmer said he had cut an acre or two of trees on an elevated portion of his farm. In telling his experience he said: "My first loss was the drying up of a beautiful brook, which had its source in my grove and which ran down through a number of fields furnishing water for cattle while grazing during hot weather. Five times the value of the wood I sold would have been refused for this stream. In the vicinity of the place where the timber stood the ground became dry during a part of the summer. When rain fell it did not seem to absorb—the water ran down the hillsides, making great gullies and doing much damage, while the fields through which the brook flowed did not yield as good crops. I am now a firm believer in the value of woodland on a farm. I hold it will pay farmers to plant groves of trees on the higher portions of their land, if for no other purpose than to retain moisture."

Saugerties.

The excursion of Methodist ministers and laymen to Europe will leave New-York City on August 21. Saugerties people who will attend are the following: The Rev. J. N. Ramsey and wife, Miss S. Adams, William Maxwell, Wesley Shultis. They will precede the excursion party by sailing from New-York on Wednesday and joining it either at Naples or Paris.

Work on the new tram road, which is being laid out between this village and the West Shore Railroad tracks, was stopped on Monday, owing to rain. The new road will run parallel with the old tram road, forming a junction with it near the village.

A Novel Plan.

[From the Ellenville Press.]

Kingston officers having had some difficulty in serving papers at Port Jackson have adopted a new plan which works admirably. A person supposed to be a Methodist colporteur recently called upon Mrs. D. B. Bell with a lot of religious books and papers. While occupied in examining them, Mrs. Bell was served by the colporteur with documents issued by the Supreme Court, but no books were disposed of.

First Annual Fair.

The first annual fair of the Catskill Mountain Agricultural Society will be held at Margaretville on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 28, 29, and 30. Two thousand five hundred dollars in cash premiums are offered. On the first day there will be a bicycle contest for a purse of $30. On the second day there will be a base ball tournament. Third day a hose race for a purse of $100 and horse trotting.

What a Cabbage Dealer Said.

A dealer in cabbage here said to-day: "Cabbage is now sold at almost any price. Most of it is brought from Long Island. It is so ripe and rain has had such a damaging effect upon it, that the heads burst and rot sets in. In Ulster County, however, the crop is in better condition. Farmers are bringing the product to market, but not in large quantities."

THIS CITY'S BUSINESS

AS TRANSACTED BY THE ALDERMEN LAST NIGHT.

Contract to Insure Public Buildings Awarded—The First Ward Sewers Again—Alms Commissioners Elected—The City Engineer Makes a Statement.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held last night. Mayor Newkirk presided.

After reading of the minutes the Mayor reported that the Committee on Public Buildings had received propositions from insurance agents regarding the insurance on public buildings, and that the Committee had decided to award the contract to C. V. DuBois for all the City insurance at 20 cents per $100 for three years, with the exception of the Mill-street engine house, which was placed at 50 per cent. Whole amount of insurance $65,000, being a reduction of over $800.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was adopted.

The Mayor spoke of the action of the State Board of Health in regard to First Ward sewers emptying into Esopus Creek. He said that the report was not favorable to the Childs system. He recommended that the main run no further than North-Front-street.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was received.

Alderman Kraft moved that the Committee on Sewers report to the Common Council at the next meeting what modifications shall be made in the construction of the main trunk for sewers of the First Drainage District, so as to confine the sewerage to be emptied into the Esopus Creek to the First Ward. Carried.

A petition was read from operators in the cigar factory asking for use of rooms in the City Hall formerly used as Supreme Court Chambers, with the book-cases and shelves, for library of the Ladies' Library Association. Request was granted.

A protest from property owners on Holmes-street against the ordinance to pave the street with blue stone block pavement, asking for Telford instead, was read.

On motion of Alderman Dederick it was laid on the table.

A communication was read from Janitor Fiero recommending that a Poundmaster be appointed

Claims against the City were read and monthly pay roll ordered audited.

Luke Noone addressed the Common Council in regard to water standing on his lot on Hurley-avenue, owing to an obstruction in a culvert.

On motion of Alderman TenBroeck the Street Superintendent was ordered to remove the obstruction.

The City Treasurer was directed to renew tax warrants 30 days.

Alderman Murray asked that a water pipe be laid through a portion of Tomkins-street and a fire hydrant placed on the corner of Youmans-street. Referred to the Water Committee.

The Street Superintendent was ordered to remove a rock that overhangs Youmans-street.

Alderman Wieber moved that a portion of the curbing and guttering on Chester-street be paved with cobble stone.

The Mayor said that the City Engineer was responsible for allowing the paving to be made of broken stone instead of cobble stone.

The City Engineer said that the kind of pavement under the circumstances made not the slightest difference. He recommended that plank be used in an embankment.

The City Engineer made a statement regarding charges which had been made against him, that he was interested in contractors' work, coming from the fact that he had, at the request of Contractor Small, ordered for him some pipe for the Ravine-street sewer. This created a long discussion.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the Committee on Sewers was directed to recommend some manner in which the pipe of the Ravine-street sewer shall be inspected. Carried.

Alderman Murray moved that the City Engineer be discharged and John G. VanEtten be employed in his place.

After a lengthy discussion, during which a motion to adjourn was lost, a resolution by Alderman Thompson to lay the matter over until the next meeting was carried.

On motion of Alderman Hamburger the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk across Ravine-street at L. Kirchner's.

On motion of Alderman Dederick a cobble crossing at the head of Wynkoop-street and Foxhall-avenue was ordered laid.

An election of Alms Commissioners resulted: Second Ward, Charles Van Woert; Fifth Ward, David Mulholland; Eighth Ward, James G. Sweeney.

The City Clerk stated that Contractor Wilkinson objected to signing the contract for the grading of Warren-street. It was shown that Mr. Wilkinson had done some work on the street. Also that he had not signed the Chester-street contract.

Alderman Thompson moved if he did not sign the contract by the next meeting and give a bond, the contract be awarded to some other person.

On motion of Alderman Murray the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk on Hasbrouck-avenue at the foot of Livingston-street between Wurts and Hone-streets.

On motion of Alderman Wieber the Street Superintendent was directed to remove sand and dirt from Hunter-street.

Alderman Dolson said cows were running loose eating up flowers in front of the City Hall. He considered a Poundmaster necessary, and moved the Common Council proceed to elect one. On motion of Alderman Thompson it was laid on the table.

On motion of Alderman Murray property owners on the easterly side of Union avenue, near Chester-street, were directed to lay curb and gutter within 20 days.

On motion of Alderman Dolson the Street Superintendent was directed to cut the weeds on Foxhall-avenue, from Stephan to Gage-street.

Alderman North, of the Auditing Committee, reported pay-roll audited $1,550.50. The report was adopted and warrants ordered issued for the same.

Alderman Wieber moved that a large hole on the Union avenue sewer be attended to by the Street Superintendent; also a cistern at St. Mary's rectory be filled in. Carried.

The Committee on Auditing Accounts reported that they had examined the report of the Excise Commissioners and it was correct. It was received and adopted.

Alderman Brinnier, of the Street Committee, reported recommending that Fair-street extension be left to the Street Superintendent to repair. That the macadamized streets be repaired, one-half the City force to be placed on those streets, commencing at Hasbrouck-avenue. Adopted.

Alderman Dederick reported that the committee to whom had been referred the contracts to furnish broken stone had been unable to agree, and referred the matter back to the Common Council.

The figures were read; Newark Cement Company 55 cents per ton at works, and 80 cents on cars in the City; Francis Madden, 93 cents at the crusher, $1.18 on the avenue from Hone-street to the railroad.

Alderman Dederick moved that all the stone used on the northerly side of City Hall be purchased from Francis Madden.

Alderman Thompson moved an amendment that the whole contract be given to the Newark Lime & Cement Company. The amendment was lost.

Alderman Dolson moved an amendment that all the stone be furnished by Madden for one year. Carried.

That Tired Feeling

Is experienced by almost everyone at this season and many people resort to Hood's Sarsaparilla to drive away the languor and exhaustion. The blood laden with impurities which have been accumulating for months, moves sluggishly through the veins the mind fails to think quickly, and the body is still slower to respond. Hood's Sarsaparilla is just what is needed. It purifies, vitalizes and enriches the blood, makes the head clear, creates an appetite, overcomes that tired feeling, tones the nervous system, and imparts new strength and vigor to the whole body.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"My appetite was poor, I could not sleep, had headache a great deal, pains in my back, my bowels did not move regularly. Hood's Sarsaparilla in a short time did me so much good that I feel like a new man. My pains and aches are relieved, my appetite improved. I say to others who need a good medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla and see." GEORGE F. JACKSON, Roxbury Station, Conn.

Makes the Weak Strong.

"For years I was sick every spring, but last year took Hood's Sarsaparilla and have not seen a sick day since." G. W. SLOAN, Milton, Mass.

"I take Hood's Sarsaparilla as a spring tonic, and I recommend it to all who have that miserable tired feeling." C. PARMELEE, 349 Bridge street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Purifies the Blood.

"I have taken not quite a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and must say it is one of the best medicines for giving an appetite, purifying the blood and regulating the digestive organs, that I ever heard of. It did me a great deal of good." MRS. N. A. STANLEY Canastota, N. Y.

The Board of Alms Commissioners held a meeting last night. There were present E. M. Brigham, William Turner, G. L Wachmeyer, Charles VanWoert, Henry Tietjen, Henry Koltz and David Mulholland.

The Secretary read the following communication from the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union:

To the Board of Alms Commissioners, Gentlemen:
We, the members of the Kingston Women's Christian Temperance Union, would earnestly petition your honorable Board to use your utmost power to enforce all laws in regard to closing of saloons on Sundays and the selling of intoxicants to minors and all violations of the law by the saloon element, so that the Lord's Day may be indeed a day of quiet and peace holy to the Lord. We subscribe ourselves for God and home and humanity. Yours respectfully, K. W. C. T. U.

Commissioner VanWoert, a member of the Committee on Laws, said that arrangements for the prosecution of violators of the excise law had been made but the Board's counsel was backward in pushing cases. A resolution that the Committee wait on counsel and "talk to him" was passed.

Alderman TenBroeck addressed the Board. He said that in his official duty as Health Inspector his attention had been called to a family in the Second Ward who was in destitute circumstances. The mother had died recently and 10 children are now ill with fever. Mrs. VanDeusen and another charitable lady had attended the afflicted ones and a nurse was needed. As the Board of Health had not the power to appoint a nurse he asked that the Alms Commissioners take some action in the matter.

William Scott, the Secretary of the Board, said that the family was receiving help from him and that he had asked the father of the children if anything more was required and the man had said that he and his daughter could take care of the patients.

The matter of prosecuting saloon keepers who sell on Sundays was discussed. Commissioner Koltz said that he had warned a certain saloon keeper to keep closed on Sundays and that the man roundly abused him and boasted that it was the best day in the week for his business.

Secretary Scott was granted permission to attend an Alms House Superintendents' convention in Plattsburgh in September.

The Secretary stated that last February a colored woman named Mary Coy, was sent to the Middletown Asylum and that she was discharged from there last week. The bill for her keeping was $106. Before she was taken to the Asylum Superintendent Scott took into his custody $52.10, two gold rings and a gold watch. The woman, who was present, asked for her property. The Superintendent was ordered to give the trinkets to their owner, but to keep the money for the present.

A bill of $299.93 was ordered paid D. W. Sparling, late counsel of the Board, for services.

A bill of $36.80, presented by a man who nursed a scarlet fever patient at Kingston Point, was laid aside. The nurse, it was stated, was engaged by the Board of Health and the bill should have been presented to the Common Council for payment.

During the trial of a case recently, those present were startled by one of the counsel addressing the Court as follows: "Your Honor, I call your attention to the fact that as the witness testified, he winked at me as much as to say 'Now you have got it!'" The Court cautioned the witness to confine himself to answering the questions.

HOW THE TOWS ARE "MADE UP" HERE

The Freighting Business Generally—Food for the Crews—Arrangement of Boats.

The freighting business on the Hudson River is brisk. It is not an uncommon sight to witness several large tows pass the mouth of the Rondout Creek every day.

At the present time, of the Cornell Company's fleet, the propellers John H. Cordts, J. C. Hartt and steamboats Oswego, McDonald and Austin tow between this port and New-York City. Each boat makes from two to three round trips a week. The Norwich and Valentine are on the Albany route, and they make three round trips a week each. Of the smaller boats the propeller I. M. North makes daily trips to Newburgh. Other boats go to Glasco, Saugerties, Hudson and points further up the Hudson.

Several tugs are used principally to bring large vessels into the Rondout Creek and to shift boats from dock to dock. The steamboat Pittson is employed exclusively in towing Delaware & Hudson Canal "loaded boats" from Eddyville to the Steamboat Dock and "light boats" back over the same route.

An average crew of a tow-boat running between Rondout and the Metropolis consists of a captain, a mate, two pilots, two engineers, four firemen, three deck-hands, a cook and a waiter. Provender for a round trip is as follows: Forty-eight pounds of fresh meat, several pounds of salt pork, one bushel of potatoes, two quarts of onions, four quarts of beets, 20 loaves of bread, one gallon of molasses, seven pounds of sugar, one and one-quarter pounds of coffee, half a pound of tea, two pounds of rice, two quarts of beans, two pounds of dried apples, six pounds of butter, three heads of cabbage, 14 quarts of milk, quarter-pound of pepper, small sack of salt, half-pound of baking-powder, 12 pounds of flour, soap and matches. These articles are given to the respective cooks by the store-keeper.

The New-York tows are made up at Kingston Point; the Albany tows in the Rondout Creek. Just now the tows average from 30 to 40 boats. Sometimes they are so large that "helpers" are required to take a flotilla to its destination. The boats are made up in tiers, the size of the craft regulating how many will be placed in each tier. If Delaware & Hudson Canal boats, four will be the number; if brick barges two will constitute a tier. Schooners are placed on the outside of a tow, on account of their bow-sprits, which would interfere and cause damage anywhere else.

Much devolves upon a captain in making up a flotilla. He is held responsible for details. He is required to keep a log, in which he registers the number of boats in the tow, the number he may "pick up" along shore, the time of leaving, time of passing Newburgh, time of arrival at destination, remarks concerning "any unusual occurrence," etc. On his return here he takes his report to Superintendent I. M. North.

It has been said that a tow cannot be put together unless there is a certain amount of grumbling on the part of boatmen.

Boatmen are expected to make fast their own lines wherever the captain in charge may direct. Sometimes a man will act "mulish" and refuse to obey a command, but the threat that he will be left behind generally induces him to change his mind.

The trip up or down the Hudson is a picturesque one.

NECESSITY OF PRESERVING FORESTS.

Trees Help to Retain Water and Moisture, and Prevent Sudden Freshets.

The heavy floods of the past spring and the present summer emphasize the fact that freshets are mainly caused by the great destruction of timber. Where there is a growth of wood, spongy soil holds rain water, thus storing up moisture; springs are fed and a regular supply given to the various streams, protecting the country from floods as well as from drouths. When trees are cut down, part of this power of storage is lost. During heavy rainfalls waters rush down mountains and hills and swell streams. These streams fall as rapidly as they rise, and oftentimes become so low during a dry season that the country which they should water becomes parched from lack of moisture.

In Ulster County, where thousands of acres have been denuded of timber for the purpose of supplying markets with lumber, tanneries with bark, etc., this has been the result to a considerable extent. As trees have been hewn down, floods have increased, and bridges have been carried away, causing great loss. This state of affairs has been more noticeable at foothills than on mountains. Trees do not grow to any great extent on mountain peaks. The tops of the mountains are usually covered with thick beds of moss and vegetation, which hold moisture. Evaporation is light at the height of from 3,000 to 4,000 feet. On lower plateaus, where hemlock has been cut for the bark, trunks of the trees have been left in the ground. These have formed a barrier, preventing vegetation from being washed away.

The agitation of the subject of destruction of timber has already been of benefit in the education of land owners. The observance of Arbor Day by school pupils of this State will result in great good in this direction.

Recently a farmer said he had cut an acre or two of trees on an elevated portion of his farm. In telling his experience he said: "My first loss was the drying up of a beautiful brook, which had its source in my grove and which ran down through a number of fields furnishing water for cattle while grazing during hot weather. Five times the value of the wood I sold would have been refused for this stream. In the vicinity of the place where the timber stood the ground became dry during a part of the summer. When rain fell it did not seem to absorb—the water ran down the hillsides, making great gullies and doing much damage, while the fields through which the brook flowed did not yield as good crops. I am now a firm believer in the value of woodland on a farm. I hold it will pay farmers to plant groves of trees on the higher portions of their land, if for no other purpose than to retain moisture."

Saugerties.

The excursion of Methodist ministers and laymen to Europe will leave New-York City on August 21. Saugerties people who will attend are the following: The Rev. J. N. Ramsey and wife, Miss S. Adams, William Maxwell, Wesley Shultis. They will precede the excursion party by sailing from New-York on Wednesday and joining it either at Naples or Paris.

Work on the new tram road, which is being laid out between this village and the West Shore Railroad tracks, was stopped on Monday, owing to rain. The new road will run parallel with the old tram road, forming a junction with it near the village.

A Novel Plan.

[From the Ellenville Press.]

Kingston officers having had some difficulty in serving papers at Port Jackson have adopted a new plan which works admirably. A person supposed to be a Methodist colporteur recently called upon Mrs. D. B. Bell with a lot of religious books and papers. While occupied in examining them, Mrs. Bell was served by the colporteur with documents issued by the Supreme Court, but no books were disposed of.

First Annual Fair.

The first annual fair of the Catskill Mountain Agricultural Society will be held at Margaretville on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 28, 29, and 30. Two thousand five hundred dollars in cash premiums are offered. On the first day there will be a bicycle contest for a purse of $30. On the second day there will be a base ball tournament. Third day a hose race for a purse of $100 and horse trotting.

What a Cabbage Dealer Said.

A dealer in cabbage here said to-day: "Cabbage is now sold at almost any price. Most of it is brought from Long Island. It is so ripe and rain has had such a damaging effect upon it, that the heads burst and rot sets in. In Ulster County, however, the crop is in better condition. Farmers are bringing the product to market, but not in large quantities."

Flooded With Water.

During the late rain storms Snyder's quarry, in the town of Rosendale, was flooded with 14 feet of water.

THIS CITY'S BUSINESS

AS TRANSACTED BY THE ALDERMEN LAST NIGHT.

Contract to Insure Public Buildings Awarded—The First Ward Sewers Again—Alms Commissioners Elected—The City Engineer Makes a Statement.

A regular meeting of the Common Council was held last night. Mayor Newkirk presided.

After reading of the minutes the Mayor reported that the Committee on Public Buildings had received propositions from insurance agents regarding the insurance on public buildings, and that the Committee had decided to award the contract to C. V. DuBois for all the City insurance at 20 cents per $100 for three years, with the exception of the Mill-street engine house, which was placed at 50 per cent. Whole amount of insurance $65,000, being a reduction of over $800.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was adopted.

The Mayor spoke of the action of the State Board of Health in regard to First Ward sewers emptying into Esopus Creek. He said that the report was not favorable to the Childs system. He recommended that the main run no further than North-Front-street.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the report was received.

Alderman Kraft moved that the Committee on Sewers report to the Common Council at the next meeting what modifications shall be made in the construction of the main trunk for sewers of the First Drainage District, so as to confine the sewerage to be emptied into the Esopus Creek to the First Ward. Carried.

A petition was read from operators in the cigar factory asking for use of rooms in the City Hall formerly used as Supreme Court Chambers, with the book-cases and shelves, for library of the Ladies' Library Association. Request was granted.

A protest from property owners on Holmes-street against the ordinance to pave the street with blue stone block pavement, asking for Telford instead, was read.

On motion of Alderman Dederick it was laid on the table.

A communication was read from Janitor Fiero recommending that a Poundmaster be appointed

Claims against the City were read and monthly pay roll ordered audited.

The City Treasurer was directed to renew tax warrants 30 days.

Alderman Murray asked that a water pipe be laid through a portion of Tomkins-street and a fire hydrant placed on the corner of Youmans-street. Referred to the Water Committee.

The Street Superintendent was ordered to remove a rock that overhangs Youmans-street.

Alderman Wieber moved that a portion of the curbing and guttering on Chester-street be paved with cobble stone.

The Mayor said that the City Engineer was responsible for allowing the paving to be made of broken stone instead of cobble stone.

The City Engineer said that the kind of pavement under the circumstances made not the slightest difference. He recommended that plank be used in an embankment.

The City Engineer made a statement regarding charges which had been made against him, that he was interested in contractors' work, coming from the fact that he had, at the request of Contractor Small, ordered for him some pipe for the Ravine-street sewer.

This created a long discussion.

On motion of Alderman Kraft the Committee on Sewers was directed to recommend some manner in which the pipe of the Ravine-street sewer shall be inspected. Carried.

Alderman Murray moved that the City Engineer be discharged and John G. VanEtten be employed in his place.

After a lengthy discussion, during which a motion to adjourn was lost, a resolution by Alderman Thompson to lay the matter over until the next meeting was carried.

On motion of Alderman Hamburger the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk across Ravine-street at L. Kirchner's.

On motion of Alderman Dederick a cobble crossing at the head of Wynkoop-street and Foxhall-avenue was ordered laid.

An election of Alms Commissioners resulted: Second Ward, Charles Van Woert; Fifth Ward, David Mulholland; Eighth Ward, James G. Sweeney.

The City Clerk stated that Contractor Wilkinson objected to signing the contract for the grading of Warren-street. It was shown that Mr. Wilkinson had done some work on the street. Also that he had not signed the Chester-street contract.

Alderman Thompson moved if he did not sign the contract by the next meeting and give a bond, the contract be awarded to some other person.

On motion of Alderman Murray the Street Superintendent was directed to lay a crosswalk on Hasbrouck-avenue at the foot of Livingston-street between Wurts and Hone-streets.

On motion of Alderman Wieber the Street Superintendent was directed to remove sand and dirt from Hunter-street.

Alderman Dolson said cows were running loose eating up flowers in front of the City Hall. He considered a Poundmaster necessary, and moved the Common Council proceed to elect one. On motion of Alderman Thompson it was laid on the table.

On motion of Alderman Murray property owners on the easterly side of Union avenue, near Chester-street, were directed to lay curb and gutter within 20 days.

On motion of Alderman Dolson the Street Superintendent was directed to cut the weeds on Foxhall-avenue, from Stephan to Gage-street.

Alderman North, of the Auditing Committee, reported pay-roll audited $1,550.50. The report was adopted and warrants ordered issued for the same.

Alderman Wieber moved that a large hole on the Union avenue sewer be attended to by the Street Superintendent; also a cistern at St. Mary's rectory be filled in. Carried.

The Committee on Auditing Accounts reported that they had examined the report of the Excise Commissioners and it was correct. It was received and adopted.

Alderman Brinnier, of the Street Committee, reported recommending that Fair-street extension be left to the Street Superintendent to repair. That the macadamized streets be repaired, one-half the City force to be placed on those streets, commencing at Hasbrouck-avenue. Adopted.

Alderman Dederick reported that the committee to whom had been referred the contracts to furnish broken stone had been unable to agree, and referred the matter back to the Common Council.

The figures were read; Newark Cement Company 55 cents per ton at works, and 80 cents on cars in the City; Francis Madden, 93 cents at the crusher, $1.18 on the avenue from Hone-street to the railroad.

Alderman Dederick moved that all the stone used on the northerly side of City Hall be purchased from Francis Madden.

Alderman Thompson moved an amendment that the whole contract be given to the Newark Lime & Cement Company. The amendment was lost.

Alderman Dolson moved an amendment that all the stone be furnished by Madden for one year. Carried.

Adjourned for one week.
